WILLIAMS AND DELANEY TALK

Eloquence Puts Over School Board Budget Without a Single Cut

Year's Demands of Department Mean Nearly $1.50 Tax Increase

Petition Opposing Packing-house Received From People Called "Real Stuff"

Thomas Delaney and "Business Agent" Henry Williams were the star witnesses before the members of the municipal council at today's session to consider budget estimates. For nearly an hour the two talked almost continuously, each member of the duo taking up the trend of the discourse, which dealt mainly with the reasons why no cut should be made in the appropriation asked for by the committee, which is about $174,000 larger than the amount expended last year.

The members of the council listened with something like heroic patience to the explanations of Mr. Delaney and Mr. Williams as to the reasons why about $150,000 should be added to the tax rate to cover the school appropriations. Both speakers denied that seemed to be salary increases in the budget were anything more than appropriations for pay lists that had been given last year, except that in the case of janitors, it was proposed to create the positions of "chief janitors" and that it is planned to give those who get the jobs more pay. It was stated that 14 persons would be affected.

Mayor Charles On

The mayor at times figured in a desultory way on a block of paper he had in front of him. He asked occasional questions, as did Commissioners Salmon, Marchand and Donnelly, but in the end, with a bored expression of countenance, they permitted every allowance asked for by the school authorities to stand unaltered.

At the close of the session, Mayor Perry D. Thompson admitted that the council had the authority to cut the school committee estimates. "We are bound by law, though," he said to see that the schools are kept open so many weeks in each year.

"In the extravagance of the school board, you have the crux of the whole situation of municipal extravagance," remarked a city official who happened to be near by when the mayor was speaking.

His Photograph Voice

At the opening of the morning's session the mayor delivered in his photograph voice, the same admission regarding the necessity for economy in municipal finances that he has repeated to representatives of all other departments who have appeared before the council.

TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET

Report Harding to Do So March 18—Russians Seek to Buy U. S. Clothing

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—Representatives of the soviet government of Russia are said to be seeking enormous quantities of clothing from garment manufacturers here. One manufacturer says he was told by two men claiming to be soviet representatives that they had inside information that President-elect Harding had decided to recognize the Russian government on March 18.

Contracts are said to have been signed for 500,000 dresses, 500,000 skirts and an equal number of women's coats. Max Schatzman of Soluman, according to one manufacturer, signed these contracts as the representative of the soviet government. The soviet representatives seemed plentifully supplied with funds and offered to deposit large amounts in banks to insure delivery of orders.

Military Experts Ready to Move Forward if Germany Fails to Yield

Determined to Force Germany to Fulfill Reparation and Disarmament Terms

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Measures to be taken in the event that it is necessary to coerce Germany to fulfill allied reparation and disarmament terms were discussed at yesterday's conference between Premier Briand, War Minister Barthou, Marshals Foch and Pétain, General Weygand and others, says the Echo de Paris.

The military experts of France already have planned down to the smallest detail, the advance of French troops toward a secret destination, in case of such an eventuality. It is declared, the class of 1919 will be kept with the colors, and the class of 1918 will be called up. Arrangements have also been made to extend the French occupation area into the Coblenz district should the Washington administration decide to recall American forces from Germany.

SAVE MEMBERS OF CREW

Coast Guards Rush to Aid of Burning Barge—Flames Break Out as Crew Slept

SANDWICH, Feb. 18.—The coast guards of the Sandwich station tonight saved the lives of the crew of the barge Musconetcong. The station lookout discovered that the barge at anchor in the Cape Cod canal was on fire and Captain Chris Sullivan and his men boarded her, awoke the crew, and with them fought the flames. Three lugs in the canal were called to pour water on the fire which was in the fore-castle. It was believed the barge would be a total loss. The Musconetcong was owned by the Atlantic Coast Transportation Co. of New York. She was one of a tow of three bound light from Boston for New York.

HENRY MCGEE FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM

Henry McGee, aged between 50 and 60 years, an employee of the Bitterleek car shops, was found dead in his room at 52 Tyler street, this morning. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner T. H. Smith and later it was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker William A. Mack in Gorham street. It is believed death was due to natural causes.

McGee was alive and well last night. This morning at 6 o'clock when Miss Sarah Stewart, who conducts the lodging house, went upstairs to awaken McGee, she did not get any response to her calls, and, pushing the door open, found the man lying on the floor near his bed. Neighbors were called in and they found that the man was dead. The police were notified. McGee is believed to have relatives in Hartford, Conn., and Gloucester.

PITTSBURGH WOMEN FORM PISTOL CLUB

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 18.—The women of four Pittsburgh suburbs have organized a pistol club for the purpose of protecting themselves and their homes against robbers. For several months robbers have been active in Ardmore, Bryn Mawr, Edgewood Acres and Rockwood, and several women have been attacked.

In order to cope with the situation, more than a score of women residents of the suburbs purchased pistols and organized the club. Thomas Wiechart, former major of the United States army, gave them their first lesson in the use of firearms.

Outdoor target practice will be instituted soon.

OPPOSED TO NEW CHARTER

Remonstrants Heard at Hearing Before Legislative Committee on Cities

After Three Hours' Discussion Committee Takes Matter Under Advisement

For nearly three hours this morning, the opponents of the proposed new charter for Lowell held the attention of the committee on cities, and it was not until 1:30 p. m. that the committee was able to close the hearing and take the matter under advisement.

Representative Charles H. Stovey characterized the proposed charter as a city manager plan camouflaged with a common council, purely for decorative purposes. He referred to the alleged of the proponents, conceding last year's shortage in the water department as the only complaint they had made against the present form of government. He said that that will not be repeated this year, because the department will live within its income.

Representative Owen B. Brennan recorded himself in opposition to the commission's charter. Albert B. White, treasurer of the Massachusetts Police association, said that Lowell is one of the few cities which has not realized the importance of retaining experts at the head of the police department.

SAYS WAGE CUT OF 20 PER CENT NECESSARY

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 18.—A wage reduction of 20 per cent is necessary for successful operation of the P. M. Shoe Co. of Concord, the state board of conciliation and arbitration has ruled. Called upon to decide a controversy between the company and the Boot & Shoe Workers union over a proposal to cut wages 20 per cent, the board found that readjustment of labor costs was essential to profitable operation and announced that the proposed reduction would be a benefit to all concerned. Its decision, however, said that the cut should not be made at one time but that 10 per cent should be taken from present rates on March 1, and additional 10 per cent reduction made on May 1. The board said that both sides had agreed to accept its decision.

Indeed the "ground hog" came out in that day, if he did not earlier in the month, though understand we noticed some very nice persons out that day, as a matter of fact, they were mostly all nice and true enough, they were looking for something more substantial than their own shadow. But while speaking of the Dollar Day as a spender, what about the Dollar proposition as a saver. It takes but ONE DOLLAR to start a Savings Account. The one with a Savings Account is ready for the One Dollar Day every day in the year.

QUICK ACTION ON QUARANTINE

Criticism Stirs Board of Health to Consider Sleeping Sickness Case

Dr. T. F. Carroll Says Special Meeting Will Be Held Tomorrow

Local Physicians Fear Spread of Disease Unless Protective Steps Are Taken

A special action of the board of health is to be held tomorrow morning to take action on the question of quarantining Maria Silva, 10 years old, of 40 Chapel street, who, according to the report of Dr. M. F. Cunha, is suffering from sleeping sickness.

Dr. T. F. Carroll, a member of the board, gave out the information today. Dr. Cunha has stated to a representative of The Sun that his diagnosis of the disease is correct and that it was arrived at only after consultation with other physicians.

That sleeping sickness is an infectious disease is the opinion of members of the state board of health, who have requested all doctors of the state to report suspected cases to their local boards of health; of Dr. D. J. Ellison, who was the attending physician in the case of Mrs. Hannah Robertson, who recently died of the disease in this city; and of Dr. Frothingham, of the Peter Bent Brigham hospital of Boston, who was in consultation with Dr. Ellison regarding the Robertson case.

Highly Infectious

Local physicians, who have kept informed regarding the disease, state that in other parts of the country where the malady has appeared it has developed highly infectious qualities, particularly among persons afflicted with the grip, and that the average death rate is well above 20 per cent.

These facts have led a number of leading physicians of the city to criticize vigorously the failure of the local board of health to take some action to protect the public against the spread of the disease. Children and

Nelson E. Knights Said to Have Confessed That He Killed Corson

CANAAN, Me., Feb. 18.—Alfred Corson, the elderly man whose body was found buried under a haystack at the home of Mrs. Andrew Welch, four miles from this village, was killed by blows from the head from an axe, presumably while he slept in his room in the eight-tenement house at Dexter.

Examination of the body, which was found at practically the same moment that Nelson Eugene Knights, son of the 50-year-old woman with whom he was staying when arrested, is alleged to have confessed in Bangor jail to Sheriff Fernandez that he killed Corson, his dead wife's uncle, and hid his body there, showed that the whole top of the skull had been crushed in as if by several blows.

Dr. W. S. Stinchfield of Skowhegan, the medical examiner who performed an autopsy here, said some of the

Caruso Gains in Battle for Life—Recovery Now Expected

ENRICO CARUSO AND MRS. CARUSO

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Reassuring reports were brought from the sick bed of Enrico Caruso early today. He passed a fairly restful night, his fever was somewhat reduced, his respiration decidedly better, and he was able to take some liquid nourishment several times. This served to induce intermittent periods of slumber.

Statements of friends who visited the apartment were more optimistic than the doctors' cautious bulletins.

Despite reports that seemed to portend the singer's recovery, it was admitted that he still was gravely ill and had not yet passed the crisis. He is favored by his indomitable spirit, which has brought him safely through the heart attack and the relapses that have followed. He has been comforted by messages from all over the world, many of which tell of prayers for his speedy recovery.

Inquirers were told today that Caruso was much stronger and that he appeared to be better than at any time since he suffered the relapse. He has lost 40 or 50 pounds in weight, however.

In a lengthy chat with Mrs. Caruso today the tenor asked her to relate many circumstances of the last two days on which his memory appeared somewhat hazy. He wanted her to tell him frankly what the physicians thought of his condition and he smiled as she assured him they were no longer alarmed.

Romey Benjamin, Mrs. Caruso's brother, said today: "It is quite apparent that Mr. Caruso is wonderfully improved. There is absolutely nothing wrong with his throat."

Four Civilians Killed Near Kilbrittain, County Cork—Woman Kidnapped

DUBLIN, Feb. 18.—The most extensive series of raids as yet carried out in Dublin, began early today. One thousand troops participated, equipped with motor lorries, machine guns and armored cars.

Districts around Mountjoy square and the approaches to that section of the city were barricaded and machine gun posts were established. A close search for arms was instituted, and the extent of the preparations made for the raid indicated there was no expectation on the part of the authorities of finishing it quickly.

The military isolated about two square miles of the city for an exhaustive house to house search. Popular rumor attributed the operation to a search for Frank Peeling, who escaped recently from the Kilmainham jail, but it probably was only a repetition of a similar raid which lasted 36 hours some weeks ago, during which Church street district was invested in a search for arms and ammunition. Other districts, it is thought probable, will have the same experience later.

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAM

Washington and Lincoln Anniversary Exercises Held at Keith's Theatre

Washington and Lincoln birthday exercises were carried out by the high school pupils in Keith's theatre this noon. Students and teachers assembled in the theatre at 11 o'clock. Superintendent Hugh J. Molloy, who has been absent from his duties on account of illness for some time, was present.

All class sessions in the high school were cut short to allow time for the exercises, and nearly every available seat in the theatre was occupied by the pupils. While the students marched from the school buildings and filed into the theatre the school orchestra, under the direction of Frederick O. Blunt, played the entrance march and overture numbers.

The program was an elaborate one. No observance was carried out for Lincoln's day and today's numbers combined Washington and Lincoln features.

In an address to the school, Principal Henry Harris took advantage of the opportunity of having the entire school assembled, which is impossible under present conditions at the high school, and urged the students to economize in the time they give in going from one recitation room to another. The necessary delay by pupils having to go back and forth between the high

NOT WAR HEROINE WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE

PARIS, Feb. 18.—It was Louise Tellez, a nurse, and not Louise Thullier, a Belgian school teacher and war heroine, who committed suicide by swallowing rat poison at her home near Mons, yesterday, says a Havas despatch from Lille, Mlle. Tellez, who was associated with Edith Cavell, the English nurse executed by the Germans in 1915, killed herself after she had been summoned to appear before a magistrate investigating espionage in Belgium during the war. It was alleged she denounced a number of co-workers to the Germans and many of them were put to death by the German forces.

The similarity of the names of the two women misled newspapers here, and the suicide was given great prominence. Mlle. Thullier resides in Lille and is much distressed by the erroneous report.

25,000 HOLD STOCK IN TWO COMPANIES

It was brought out at meetings yesterday of the Mutual and Commercial Finance companies, that the two concerns financed by the H. V. Greene company have nearly $5,000,000 stockholders, and that the total paid in capital of both concerns is about $4,250,000. A committee reported that the companies have assets believed to be good to the amount of $2,000,000, and other assets of doubtful value, but on which a substantial amount may be realized in time.

Patrick P. Sullivan of this city, formerly president of the Bay State street railway, was elected president of both companies.

STORY OF AGED PEDDLER

Awakening to Find Himself
Rich Says He Merely
Wants Comfort

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 18.—Alfred Newsome was a peddler of shoestrings when he went to bed. Next morning he was a millionaire. But he didn't know it. He got up at an early hour, a life-long habit, strapped up his peddler's case and started down-town to catch the early shoppers. In the meantime half a dozen detectives were searching for him. A letter had come to the Oakland police from Attorney John N. Landberg, of Philadelphia, telling of a fortune that waited one Alfred Newsome. The letter was accompanied by a photograph of Newsome, taken some years ago, together with the information that Newsome had last been heard from in the vicinity of Berkeley, California.

Newsome Hunted
Newsome, meanwhile, plodded along the side streets, made a few sales and finally fetched up directly in front of "The Club." The Club is a room provided for the unemployed by a church organization. An assortment of jobless men, derelicts and old men who have no other place to go, gather there each day. To Newsome, aged peddler of shoestrings, many of "The Club" members had become cronies. Newsome walked in. All of his aged chums were there, for it was Wednesday, a day on which they invariably gathered for a check-er tournament. The program always opened with a careful study of the lists of jobs, placarded on "The Club" wall, but seldom did a position appear to tempt them. The checkboard beside the warm stove, would finally lure them.

Fortune Enters
Ten minutes after the weekly tournament had gotten under way, fortune came through the door in the form of Police Inspector Peter Van Houtte. He took a card from his pocket and carefully studied Newsome.

"I want to see you for a moment," he said, tapping the peddler on the shoulder. The aged cronies winked suspiciously. It was not uncommon for a policeman to question one of their number regarding some petty theft.

"There's good news for you here," the policeman told Newsome, tapping the circular "Prepare for a great shock—you're a millionaire."

Won't Believe It
"Huh!" granted Newsome. "I don't believe it."

He was shown the letter, the picture and the description.

"Taint me," he insisted. "Nobody would leave me any money."

"D'ye mean to say you're going to disown a million bucks?" demanded the policeman. "There's no doubt about it, you're it," Newsome shoved the officer away and returned to the checker game.

An hour later another officer came and forcibly took Newsome before the chief of police. There, after an hour of questioning, Newsome was positively identified as the missing heir. The fortune had, apparently, been left by a brother, with whom Newsome had quarrelled as a youth—though there was but meagre information in the letter.

Finally Convinced
"You can't be too sure," said the peddler, made skeptical by years of adversity. He took his pack and returned to work.

As days went by it finally dawned upon the peddler that he was actually a millionaire. A railroad ticket came

MINUTE-MAN BURGLAR MADE $1200 HAUL

BEVERLY, Feb. 18.—A minute-man burglar made a $1200 haul after breaking the window of a jewelry store in the business district early today and then vanished. The theft occurred between the 10-minute rounds of a policeman.

When the patrolman passed the store at 3 o'clock he says there was not a person on the street. On his return call, he saw a man wearing a long coat and carrying a bag across the roadway. The policeman thought he was the janitor of one of the buildings as he disappeared into the darkness. The robbery was discovered directly afterward.

HUGHES IN CONFERENCE WITH HARDING

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 18.—Specific steps in initiating the foreign policy of the next administration will be passed in final review late today at a conference between President-elect Harding and Charles E. Hughes, who is expected to be the next secretary of state.

Among the problems to be discussed at the conference is the section of Mr. Harding's inaugural address to be devoted to the plan for an association of nations. The address is expected to refer only in a general way to the plan, but it is understood that the president-elect wants to have Mr. Hughes' advice before he frames the exact language of the expression.

Diplomatic appointments also are to be considered, although it is believed that Mr. Harding will reserve final judgment on most of the important diplomatic selections until after inauguration.

Mr. Hughes' visit occupied the center of attention today at Mr. Harding's headquarters, the morning being devoted to a number of miscellaneous appointments and to a continuation of the president-elect's conference with Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, who is understood to have been selected for attorney general.

Washington-Lincoln Anniversary Exercises in Schools

Exercises in observance of the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln were held today in most of the public schools of the city. The programs, which were elaborate, were conducted in the assembly hall of each school this afternoon and proved very instructive as well as enjoyable. At the Abraham Lincoln school, the exercises were held yesterday afternoon for the pupils and the program was repeated this afternoon. At the Green, Moody, Sawtucket, and Washington schools, the exercises were held in the various rooms, separate programs having been prepared. The programs were as follows:

LINCOLN SCHOOL

The Washington and Lincoln exer-

cises at the Lincoln grammar school took the form of a pageant, entitled "The Making of the Flag." Introducing Henry Hoss and her girls. The children were in proper costume for the occasion. CASEY IS SUBJECTED TO UNUSUAL GRILLING

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Ex-Mayor James B. Casey, chairman of the Lowell charter commission, was subjected yesterday to a grilling more exhaustive than any that can be recalled by "the oldest inhabitant" at the state house, while he was presenting to the committee on cities the commission's proposed new charter for Lowell.

After forcing the former mayor to discuss the proposed charter, section by section, members of the committee took turns in attempting to tear the commission's work to pieces. While numerous flaws were found, Mr. Casey succeeded in parrying most of the thrusts that were aimed at the commission's document, and he was not at all backward in asserting the correctness of the commission's position on some of the provisions which members of the committee were inclined to treat as "theoretical, rather than practical."

Immediately upon the re-opening of the hearing yesterday afternoon, Chairman Bliss opened the attack, questioning the provision in section 33 that heads of departments may remove their subordinates. He said the civil service department had already entered objection to this provision, on the ground that it constituted a reversal of the state's policy in respect to the civil service. Mr. Casey said there had been no intention to do anything of that sort, and he consented to an amendment which will make all such removals subject to the civil service laws and rules.

Next the committee took up the section providing for the appointment of a public service board, a novelty in city administration, and the mayor was asked to explain it. "We are not very proud of our streets in Lowell," he replied, "and we believe that the fault lies, not with the commissioner, who is supposed to be responsible, but with the system. We believe that the results will be gained if administration of the streets, sewers and water works is vested in a three-headed board. Last year there was a deficit of more than $100,000 in our waterworks department, and we believe that existing inefficiency can be eliminated if we place in charge of the department such a board as we propose to create." He defended the provision that one member must be a technical expert, stating that the services of such a man are needed, and the getting of such a man should be made obligatory, and not left to good intentions of the appointing officer.

Then Senator Halliwell took up the questioning, pointing out that at the morning session Mr. Casey had contended that expert knowledge is needed in the administration of the police department, and inquiring why it is demanded for the members of the public service board. Mr. Casey replied that he had not intended anyone to understand that in his opinion the head of the police department should not be an expert. "There are many duties involved in administering the police department, in addition to the detection of crime," he said. "It is conceivable that you might find at the head of the police department, through a series of promotions, a man who destroyed discipline and lacked the confidence of the men under him. Such a man should not be retained, and the mayor should have power to remove him, no matter what his political influence. On the other hand, there are a lot of men who have had the very finest training in the military police during the war; they have never served on any police force in civil life, yet there would be many of them thoroughly qualified to handle the police department of any large city such as ours. You need only to recall the example of Boston, under former Commissioner O'Meara. He had had no police training of any sort when he became commissioner, yet the police department under his administration made a wonderful record."

The next serious objection came to the section which provides that in case of a vacancy in the council, the remaining members shall appoint the person who received the second highest number of votes at the previous election. It was pointed out that a defeated candidate might, after the election, perform some act which would make him thoroughly discredited, and Mr. Casey was asked whether it would not be better to permit the council to fill vacancies without "strings" of any kind upon their action. A change to this effect was agreed to.

CHAIRMAN WHITE WINS VICTORY AT MEETING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Chairman George White, of the democratic national committee and his supporters, came forth victorious last night from a meeting of the national committee's executive committee of 16, the first official conference of the party's leaders since the November elections.

The executive committee, appointed and called together by Chairman White to discuss reorganization of party machinery, by unanimous vote turned down as impracticable the proposal of Thomas B. Love, of Texas, and 55 other members of the national committee that the full membership of the national committee be called to meet March 1 at St. Louis or some other central city.

The executive committee also adopted a program for reorganization of the party, which Mr. White was understood to have put before the meeting. This program as adopted provides for the appointment by the chairman of a sub-committee of five to devise means of liquidating the $100,000 indebtedness incurred in the last campaign and to prepare a budget of expenses for maintaining headquarters in Washington and for preparation by the chairman of the plan for organization of a woman's bureau of the national committee.

The victory of Chairman White and his forces was augmented through chance from the committee discussions of any suggestion that Mr. White be asked to retire as chairman. The nearest approach to the matter was the announcement of Robert W. Woolley, former interstate commerce commissioner, who, with Mr. Love, drew up the petition, requesting a meeting of the national committee, that the paragraph in the petition, which was interpreted in some quarters as a quest for Mr. White's resignation had been eliminated. Committee member Love, who with Mr. Woolley and a half dozen other members of the petition appeared before the committee, stated that he, or the 55 committee members signing the petition were supporting any man for presidential nomination in 1924. The denial was made in reply to charges and reports at the time the petition was made public two weeks ago that it was an attempt to start a movement for William G. McAdoo, as the 1924 candidate.

The forces led by Messrs. Love and Woolley, however, were victorious in one respect. They obtained incorporation in the resolutions adopted by the committee a provision that while it was impracticable and unnecessary to call a meeting of the full committee at this time, members of the national committee should advise Chairman White of their more deliberate opinion at an early meeting of the full committee should be called.

Favorable action on the Love petition was vigorously opposed by Homer

S. Cummings and Senator Glass, national committeemen from Connecticut and Virginia, respectively, who said that while they favored a meeting of the national committee in the near future as an abstract proposition, they were opposed to the present movement in view of the "false impressions" that such a meeting would be a slam at Chairman White.

"Let's go out of here pulling together," Mr. Cummings told the executive committee, "with the knowledge that ultimately we are going to have a meeting when in his discretion he is best Chairman White to call that meeting when in his discretion he thinks it wise and necessary to do so."

The forces petitioning for an immediate meeting refused to comment last night on the executive committee's action, but it was indicated that they would not abandon their efforts to bring about a meeting in the near future.

BAY STATE OWNS 25 ACRES IN NEW YORK

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Ownership of about 25 acres of land in the city of Rochester, N. Y., on Lake Ontario, immediately west of the mouth of the Genesee river, yesterday was conceded to Massachusetts by Herbert W. Pierce, Rochester's commissioner of public works. It is valued at nearly $200,000.

In a joint letter to Gov. Cox, Atty. Gen. Allen and the Legislature, Mr. Pierce said that he and Albert W. Shepard, deputy corporation counsel of Rochester, would call on the Bay State officials today to negotiate for Rochester's purchase of the property. "Discovery by Rochester that Massachusetts was concerned in title to the land, which it wants to make into a park and recreation grounds, came when the city decided to buy it. Land on Lake Ontario was given to the New York and Massachusetts colonies by the king of England prior to the revolutionary war. Conflicting claims developed over ownership to certain parts of the property and by the Treaty of Hartford in December, 1783, title to the lake and a section of the shore wasced to Massachusetts. Subsequently Massachusetts sold the land, but retained title to the bed of the lake. Later when the shore of the lake was filled in near Rochester, there came into being about 25 acres which under the treaty of Hartford automatically became Massachusetts' property.

OPPOSE PUNISHMENT OF MAY REMOVE LIQUOR TO JAPANESE SENTRY OWN HOMES

TOKIO, Feb. 16 (by the Associated Press).—Punishment of Toshigoro Ogasawara, the Japanese sentry who shot and killed Lieut. Warren H. Langdon of Boston, chief engineer of the United States cruiser Albany at Vladivostok, late in December, was opposed in a resolution introduced in the Japanese diet today by Representative Zensuke Tanaka, a member of the kenseikai, or opposition party. The resolution declared that the action of the sentry was justifiable, and that any punishment visited upon him would militate against discipline in the army.

"As a sentry on duty in such a place as Vladivostok and under such circumstances as gave rise to the Langdon affair," the resolution declared, "the conduct of the Japanese private was entirely justifiable, as he acted in self-defense. If the sentry should be punished, perhaps no Japanese soldier in the future will be willing to take up the burden of the duties attaching to a sentry, much less to carry out those duties faithfully. From the standpoint of military discipline, as well as that of morality, punishment of the sentry would be a serious travesty on justice."

A regiment of former soldiers in the city of Shizuoka, near Yokohama, has adopted resolutions, opposing the punishment of Ogasawara. Officers, especially those in junior grades, who are going to Manchuria, plan the inauguration of a movement to arouse public opinion, basing their action on the ground that the sentry's punishment would menace the execution of military duty.

Despatches from Vladivostok to the Yomiuri Shimbun of this city, stating Ogasawara had been found guilty of a breach of discipline, have not been confirmed.

REPORTS BY Y. W. C. A. CAMPAIGN WORKERS

The Y.W.C.A. campaign for funds to carry the organization through the coming year in Lowell has opened auspiciously, it was learned when reports of one day's contributions were read at a luncheon of workers held yesterday at the Y.W.C.A. building. The sum of $1250 has already been secured here, and prospects are bright for even greater success during the remaining period of the drive.

"With such a splendid spirit, you are bound to come through victorious," said Rev. J. L. Cairns, one of the speakers at the luncheon. Rev. Mr. Cairns' prophecy was seconded by others who made brief addresses at the affair.

Miss Bailey, night secretary at the Y, described some of the phases of the work being done for Lowell girls by the organization and Mrs. Hodge, chairman of the campaign executive committee, introduced several of the workers, who told of some of their experiences during the first day's activities. More than two hundred campaigners in all are participating in the collection of contributions, and less than half of this number have reported. It appears probable that more than half of the total sum required will be obtained during the early part of the drive.

Eight and one-half per cent of all deaths in this country are attributed to heart disease.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Regulations were issued last night by the interior revenue bureau governing the transportation of liquor for beverage purposes in accordance with the recent decision of the supreme court on the question of intoxicants acquired before the advent of permanent prohibition, Jan. 17, 1920.

Such liquors, the regulations provide, may be moved by their owner from a place of storage to his private dwelling for the use of himself and family or guests entertained there. Permits for the transportation of lawfully acquired liquor, however, must be obtained from federal prohibition directors. Liquor held in bond, however, may not be withdrawn for beverage purposes.

Liquors lawfully obtained before national prohibition, the regulations provide, may be received by the heirs of the deceased owner, who would have the same rights of possession and transportation as the original owner. All persons possessing lawfully acquired liquor in storage outside their dwellings are required by the regulations to make a report to the prohibition director of their state, within 30 days, showing kinds and quantity owned. No report is necessary covering liquor now held in a private dwelling. Liquor may not be removed or transported in violation of any state or federal law making such removal or transportation illegal, the bureau ruled.

CAWLEY BROTHERS IN AUTO BUSINESS

William and Edward Cawley have created quite a stir in Lowell automobile circles by announcing their agency for the Paige-Detroit motor cars and trucks, under the head of the Cawley Motor Car Co.

Both of the Cawley brothers are well known in social, commercial and athletic circles. They are at present engaged in the coal business in Rogers street, the business which their father, Edward Cawley, has conducted for a great many years.

The new company will have its headquarters at the First street garage, and it is the intention of the two newcomers in the automobile field to have sales and showrooms second to none in this section of the country. The new company will also have an up-to-date service station. An announcement of their formal opening will appear later.

TO KEEP BASEBALL CLEAN

No Legislation Necessary to Punish Offenders in Opinion of Mass. Legislative Committee

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—No legislation is necessary to punish a baseball player, umpire or owner who acts dishonestly or conspires to throw a game, in the opinion of the legislative committee on local affairs. After a hearing at which all who appear were agreed that there should be legislation to keep baseball clean and to punish those discovered to be acting unfairly the committee decided that such actions could be punished sufficiently through publicity and other channels available to those in charge of baseball.

STORE NEWS

If every woman would have her corset fitted at time of purchase there would be much less complaint about uncomfortable or poorly wearing corsets. We make no extra charge for fitting by a G. C. (Graduate Corsetiere) and the extra 15 or 20 minutes it takes are well spent.

Do you know that many of our customers are doing their own dressmaking now? It is the McCall Pattern that is responsible for this state of affairs. It's a new kind of pattern that brings to Home Dressmakers the two most desirable things in a pattern: Simplicity and accuracy. Instructions for cutting and sewing are printed right on the pattern.

I have found a wonderfully good Hair Net. It is made of real human hair, processed for invisibility and strength, is stylish and sanitary, and is guaranteed to give entire satisfaction and to be "the best at its price." It is the "Fashionette" and the price is two nets for 25c. Try one next time!

Uniforms for nurses and maids are a specialty with us. We carry the well known "Dix" make in our House Dress Dept. on the second floor. And Nurses' Collars are sold in our Neckwear Department on the street floor. The Y. W. C. A. asks you to be loyal to the Girls of Lowell. Give to their fund.

STORE NEWS

When you are feeling completely fagged out, try a massage in our Beauty Shops—then probably a manicure and a manicure and the whole world will look brighter and a much nicer place to live in.

It is almost a brand new department, still I think it is one of the most interesting in the store. And there are any number of customers who will agree with me. It is the recently opened Art Needle-goods Department on the street floor.

We sell lace in this department, did you know it? I didn't know it myself until I heard a customer inquiring about some. This particular lace is used for trimming center-pieces, luncheon cloths, etc. And it may be had in either cream or white. Did you know that we make shades to order? Any kind, any style, any sizes. Just call 5000 and ask to be connected with our Curtain workroom.

There are still a few good tickets left for Kreisler's concert, which comes to the strand Theatre on Monday next. Better order yours immediately—lest you be disappointed. Victrola Salon—fourth floor.

Do you take the McCall Magazine? We would be glad to take your subscription over the telephone, if you cannot come in personally. Six months, $1.00.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Believed Committee Will
Make Adverse Report on
Packing House Project

From what information could be obtained from two members of the chamber of commerce committee which visited slaughter and packing houses in Brighton and Somerville yesterday, it is believed that an adverse report will be turned in by the committee. The report will be made out and submitted at the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at noon, Monday.

The committee was composed of Abel Campbell, William J. White, Jr., and George Bowers, consulting engineer for the American Hide & Leather company on Perry street. The latter supervised the construction of the new bean house for his company, and because of his work in that capacity he was requested by the chamber to act as one of a committee of three. When the suggestion was first made that the chamber should have an investigating committee it was proposed to hire men for the work.

The proposal that the chamber should investigate the slaughter house proposition was at first objected to by many members, but at a meeting of the directors last week they decided that a report of an investigating committee, to be finally turned over to the city council, would be satisfactory.

It was explicitly stated, however, that the finding of the committee could not be binding upon the board of directors, nor be taken as the stand of the chamber of commerce upon the project.

The committee visited the New England Wool and Fleece company, and the John P. Spivey plant in Somerville, and the Brighton slaughter house. They went unheralded and unannounced, so that the officials of the plants knew the purpose of their request to be shown through the establishments.

In making the tour of the buildings, one of the committee remarked to the manager about the bad odor. The latter said that he couldn't smell anything and that his visitor was just imagining things. Then the manager added, that the odor was light and it was a "sweet-smelling day." This same committee member, who spoke of the odor, could not stand the effects of the smell, and had to retire once or twice to the outside.

In making their inspection, special attention was given to obtaining information as to the number of men such a plant as is proposed for Lowell, would employ. The finding was entirely below what is generally prevalent in the city. It is understood that the committee found from information gained in Somerville and Brighton that the Lowell plant would employ at the most 300 or 400 hands.

Another slaughter house official visited yesterday, when questioned as to the likelihood of another such plant being established in the vicinity of Boston, said that it would not be large, because the east cannot handle large slaughter or packing plants.

Labor Dept. Bulletin

Secretary-Manager George F. Wells, of the chamber of commerce, has been appointed as a special agent in this city for the United States department of labor, which will hereafter issue a monthly bulletin on unemployment conditions in 152 industrial cities of the country. The labor department, to facilitate their compilation of statistics, appoints agents in each industrial city. The first bulletin in which figures collected by Mr. Wells will appear, will be issued next month. He will immediately set to work in gathering figures pertaining to Lowell employment or unemployment conditions during the month of January and on March 1 figures on February will be sent by him to Washington. In this way, the exact status of industrial cities throughout the country will be compiled. When published the bulletin will be distributed to the various industrial concerns, public and private information bureaus, chambers of commerce, newspapers, and so on.

Committee Meeting

The committee on committees held a meeting at the chamber rooms this noon. Among the most important things discussed was the matter of recommendations to committees on action to be taken on the 1921 program of work for the chamber.

Killed by Blows From an Axe

Remains of the skull were pulverized and pieces driven into the brain. There were no other marks of violence on the body. While death may not have been instantaneous, he said Corson was knocked unconscious. The body was placed in a tomb here.

Before rigor mortis had set in, the body, weighing about 120 pounds and being about five feet, six inches long, was placed in the trunk found Wednesday night in the Welch home here, and taken to a farmhouse several miles out from Dexter on the Dover road, where Knights' 16-year-old son, also held with his father on technical charges of larceny, was employed, according to the authorities.

Two days later it was transported to this place. The only garments on the body were a brown suit and an undershirt, indicating that Corson was dragged from his bed to the middle of the room where the pools of congealed blood, the first clue that he was murdered, was found, were discovered Monday. It was wrapped in a patchwork quilt from Corson's bed and a horse blanket.

Straw and chaff were carefully replaced and trampled down after the body had been buried in a three-foot grave. Mrs. Welch's only comment when informed of the finding of the body was that, if her son had committed such a crime, she wanted to see him punished.

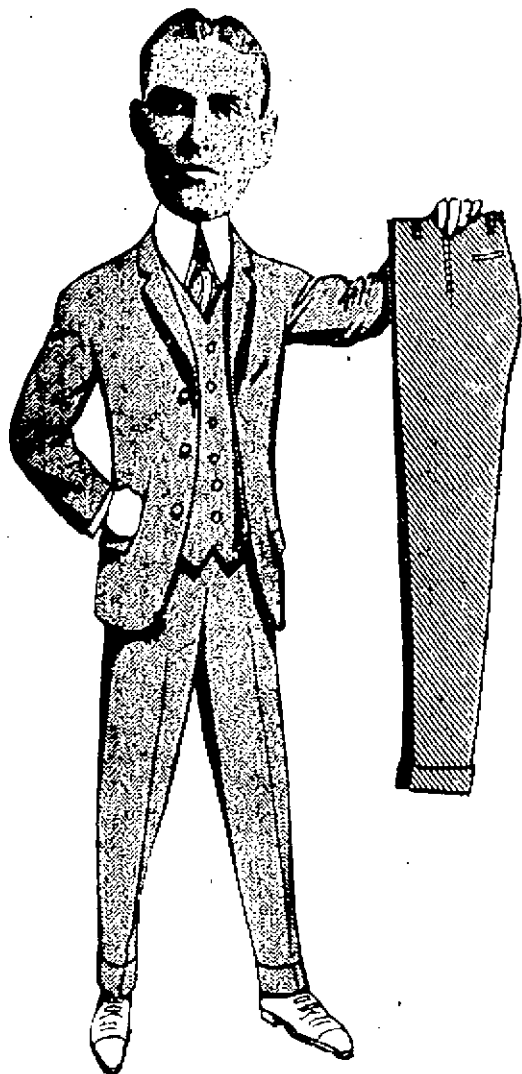

Knights will be taken to Dexter and arraigned on the charge of murder probably tomorrow afternoon. His son, who bears his father's Christian name, is expected to be a material witness for the state.

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—A small axe believed to have been used to kill Alvin Karpis in his room here was found today. It was discovered in a shed at the farm of Frank McKenney where Nelson Eugene Knights, alleged confessed murderer, stored part of his household goods after they were removed from the transient house in which Corson was killed, and where his son, Nelson Eugene Knights, Jr., was employed as a farmhand.

The axe was coated with dried blood and dark brown hair. The hair was said to be the same color as that of the dead man. It was at this farm that the trunk in which Corson's body was placed before it was taken to Canaan on Feb. 5.

My 12th Anniversary

EXTRA PANTS FREE

Mitchell the Tailor reminds you that this Anniversary Sale marks his twelfth year in Lowell as neighbor, resident and low priced tailor.

Look forward and 12 years seem an eternity—Look backward and we marvel at the speed with which it has passed.

But in the tailoring business it is necessary at the beginning to look forward, otherwise you won't be around very long as a business man to be able to look backward. All through the year, as Mitchell the Tailor kept giving you the incomparable clothing bargains, it was with the forward eye to the Coming Year, when you would again think of him if you were in the market for another suit, another overcoat, another pair of trousers. "Tempus Fugit" is a wonderful lesson.

"Tempus Fugit" is my motto, meaning: Give the People a Big Run for Their Money, because the years roll around fast and the people remember.

—ALSO—

The Clock Strikes 12

On High Prices For Clothing

To celebrate this anniversary in Lowell and to let you know that because I had to charge higher prices the last couple of years is no reason for charging them this year.

To follow my custom of the past, and a memento to this occasion, I offer, for this anniversary, a guaranteed Blue Serge, 14 oz. in weight, absolutely standard, all worsted and fast color—mere words are inadequate as a descriptive medium, it must actually be seen to be appreciated. Were I to offer this serge for $25.00, it would be magnet enough to crowd my shop to capacity. But when I say a PAIR OF TROUSERS ABSOLUTELY FREE, OF SAME MATERIAL, the bell rings on high priced clothing.

I renew my low price vows—I again make my yearly promise. The pledge that lived through twelve years in Lowell will live for years to come. I guarantee to Lowell people high grade worsteds, good fitting garments at prices always away under the clothier or tailor who is content to stand upon the market line and exact ordinary profits.

MISSING SINCE SUNDAY

No Trace of Editor Who Sought to Interview Ford
—River to be Dragged

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—At the request of Henry Ford, the police today dragged the River Rouge in search for Mr. Henry Potter, editor of the American Publishing association of Philadelphia, who has been missing after a visit here to interview Mr. Ford. It is believed he may have fallen through the ice in the river in an attempt to reach the Ford estate.

Mr. Potter has been missing since Sunday, when he made an ineffectual attempt to see Mr. Ford at Dearborn. Denied entrance to the Ford Co. property by guards, according to Ford employees, he remarked that he would get to Henry Ford if he had to swim the river. Experiments have shown that lime water is the best preservative for eggs.

FAIL TO ATTACH RIDER TO POSTOFFICE BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Efforts to attach a rider to the postoffice bill an appropriation of $100,000,000 for road construction failed today in the senate. A motion to insert the appropriation was lost on a vote of 51 to 33, or nine less than the required two-thirds majority.

WOULD CUT WAGES OF TRAWLER FISHERMEN

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Reduced wages for steam trawler fishermen are proposed in a new scale submitted today by owners of 50 vessels of this city and Gloucester to become effective March 1, when the present agreement expires. Under the proposed scale, each man would receive $15 a month in wages and share in a division of stock or vessel earnings. Ten per cent of earnings up to $450 and 5 per cent on earnings above that amount would be divided among the crew.

The present wages are $15 a month with a bonus of $5 or $4 on each thousand pounds of fish.

No action has been taken by the fishermen's union thus far. Only 12 of the trawlers of the Boston and Gloucester fleets have been in commission recently, the owners claiming that the cost of operation due to coal prices and wages was excessive in view of the low price of fish.

SEEK TO DISLODGE SHIP STRANDED ON LEDGE

NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 18.—The Scott Wrecking Co. of New London, Conn., started this morning the work of dislodging the steamship Sao Vicente, stranded on a ledge of Southport Neck. Both the wrecking master and divers assert it will be difficult to get the vessel off.

Sealed Verdicts of Guilty Returned

WORCESTER, Feb. 18.—Sealed verdicts of guilty were reported today against Leon R. Berry, and Theodore Marquis, both of Leominster, who were indicted for assault with intent to murder Dosylva Cote, a Worcester taxicab driver in Boylston, Sept. 5, 1919. Cote's body was found by the roadside two days after he was attacked. Sentence will be imposed later.

No Trace of Slayers of Teachers

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—No trace of the slayers of Louise Wolf and Mabel Foote, Parma Heights school teachers, resulted from an all-night search through every section of Parma township by a posse of armed residents.

Prominent Business Man Expresses His Appreciation
Over Toxo Treatment

"The reason that I'm telling you this is because of this little friend," said a prominent business man as he held up a little package. We smiled, for we were happy to see the thing he displayed was a box of Toxo, the wonderful treatment for constipation and indigestion.

"I was walking alone the street the other day," continued the business man, "I had seven of my friends stop and remark how well I was looking. And every time I had to laugh to myself for the secret was the little Toxo treatment package in my pocket.

"When I recall how wretched I was and the misery I went through, all due to constipation and stomach trouble, I really believe that it's a horrible dream. I was all run down and tired out. My face was pale and I felt nervous and shaky. My bowels were out of order and my breath was so bad I feared to go near any of my friends.

"I had terrible headaches and felt lousy, hot pains in my stomach and chest, and it seemed as if I had suffered for years until I commenced using Toxo. It wasn't but a short time later that I was back to my normal state. I was working in good shape and every-where I went people spoke of how well I looked. I've made up my mind to tell the secret to all my friends so that they may enjoy the wonders of Toxo treatment, whether it be for constipation, indigestion or other stomach troubles. As well as any stomach trouble, I've done wonders ever since I started using Toxo. It's simply great. I've prepared only for the use of thousands of doctors all over the country. IMPRESSIVE ELOQUENCE

(Special to The Sun.) OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 18.—Sixty-six years ago, in the spray of Prosser Falls, an Indian chief and the then governor of Washington respectively pledged their people to abide by a pact.

This pact recognized the perpetual rights of the Yakima tribe to fish where time immemorial the red man had taken his salmon.

The Indians had been reluctant paying to Governor Isaac I. Stevens, "But when you are dead, who will bear witness to your promises?" And the Governor had replied:

"I pledge the Americans to keep the promise as long as the mountains stand, as long as the sun shines and the river runs."

Calling upon these mute witnesses and summoning the spirits of the dead, Chief Menhock of the Yakimas has just made a speech of protest at the whites' violation of that treaty in the state senate chamber here which is the most dramatic recorded in its annals.

In Challenge And that speech, which would do credit to the historic orators of his race, with its sharp challenge to the white man's honor, bids fair to correct a wrong the Indians had hitherto borne in silence.

Menhock was a boy when the treaty was made. He had stood attentively beside his father on that occasion. Today he is 50 and wrinkled. Much water has run over Prosser Falls since then, and the salmon have dwindled. Also, the whites have encroached upon the Indians' fishing grounds. The treaty of 1855 that Menhock was recently arrested for taking salmon from the Yakima river.

Aged Chief Protests A few days ago Chief Menhock and other tribal leaders, together with their wives and children, appeared at the

BANISH CATARRH

Breathe Hyomel for Two Minutes and Stuffed Up Head Will Go

If you want to get safe relief from catarrh, cold in the head or from an irritating cough in the shortest time, breathe Hyomel.

It will clean out your head in two minutes and allow you to breathe freely, awake or asleep, or money refunded.

Hyomel should end a cold in one day, and relieve you of disgusting sniffles, hawking, spitting and offensive breath in a week.

Hyomel is made chiefly from eucalyptus, a soothing, healing, germ-killing antiseptic, that comes from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia, where catarrh, asthma and other bronchial troubles are seldom known.

Hyomel is pleasant and easy to breathe. Just pour a few drops into the Hard Rubber Inhaler, use as directed and relief is almost certain.

A Complete Hyomel Outfit, including Inhaler and a bottle of Hyomel, costs but little at druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Impassioned state judges of the white man at the state capitol here to protest, in their feathered and beaded trappings and scarlet blankets they projected a vivid picture of the past into the busy legislative councils as the chief rose to speak in dignified protest.

"My heart is glad today," said Menhock with solemn intent and sonorous tongue, "because you have said you would listen to what we have to say. It makes me feel that you want to do right by my people whose privileges have been taken and who are sick and sad for being deprived of the food which has given them health and strength."

Calla Upon Spirits "I call upon the spirits of the dead and upon those witnesses which Governor Stevens himself invoked to testify that I speak the truth—for the white-topped mountain still stands and the river still runs over the falls where the salmon in season come to leap."

When the old chief sat down among his people, the assembled legislators broke into a storm of approving cheers, and the senate committee which has the Indians' case under advisement immediately went on record as favoring the claims of Menhock and his folk, as included in a bill already introduced.

"White men," said the chief as he marched away, "are not so much dishonest as they are sometimes short in memory."

BUSINESS REVIEW

BY ALBERT APPLE

The following review of business conditions by Albert Apple of the N.E.A., of which The Sun is a member, shows that the prices of vegetables have reached the pre-war level. Other prices coming down.

Wholesale prices of all eastern vegetables are now down to low 1911 level, says H. H. Jones, head of New York's State Division of Foods and Markets.

Traders make same claim about most meats—wholesale.

One year ago wholesale commodity prices averaged 127 per cent. above pre-war prices. Now they are 32 per cent. above 1913 average.

16-Cent Gasoline Due Refiners continue slashing prices paid for oil at wells.

The cut averages about 50 per cent. on which basis gasoline should be selling for 16 cents a gallon or less.

Refiners retort that they must use up present stocks of oil, bought at high prices, before slashing gasoline.

Steel Price War Leading independent steel manufacturers have begun to undersell United States Steel Corporation, whose unfilled tonnage continues decreasing.

The price war in steel probably means that the bottom soon will fall out of pig iron prices.

Iron now is $25 a ton. Highest in wartime was $42. Long way to drop yet (it) from reaches $10.25, price prevailing July, 1914.

Money and Credit Checks sent through all clearing houses in United States last week totaled 28 per cent. less than same week a year ago.

New Orleans lost 43 per cent., Kansas City 38, St. Louis 31, Boston 28, New York 18, Detroit 10, Chicago 10, Baltimore 7. Pittsburgh's clearings gained 10 per cent., Philadelphia gained 4 per cent., San Francisco broke about even.

But bank clearings merely show credit conditions. Bills are hard to collect, even from large companies, most business men find.

Less Speculation Number of stocks traded on New York stock exchange during past week was 60 per cent. less than same week 1920.

The 25 leading industrials, average

DAYLIGHT SAVING SAVES LIFE

By far the strongest plea yet made in this country in favor of the daylight saving law was that of Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York state, before the legislative committee on agriculture at Albany. The commissioner admitted the claims of the farmers as to the desirability of getting their feet wet with the morning dew, but he dealt with the subject of daylight saving from a more vital standpoint—that of health and life-saving. He described the disease breeding conditions in New York as calling for urgent methods to prevent the spread of disease and to save life. He cited samples of health cards placed on his desk daily by nurses employed by the department of health including these:

"In four rooms live ten persons; they have tuberculosis in that household." "Four rooms and eleven persons; tuberculosis." "One room and five persons; tuberculosis." "Three rooms and nine persons; tuberculosis." "Three rooms and ten persons; tuberculosis." "Two rooms and eight persons; tuberculosis." "Three rooms, four married couples and a baby."

These figures show a frightful state of affairs in some parts of New York, the richest city in the country.

After eulogizing Nathan Strauss for his well known efforts in saving the lives of children, Dr. Copeland declared that in 1920, when Mr. Strauss started his work, the death rate of infants was 241 per 1000 born, but year before last it had been reduced to eight, and last year it came up to eighty-five, whereas this year the doctor expects it will be higher because of the housing conditions.

This wonderful change, he claimed, resulted to a great extent from the opportunity afforded by the daylight saving of taking the children out for an hour of sunshine after the day's work is over.

What is true of New York city is true in varying degrees of every other large city in the country. For the residents of textile cities, especially the daylight saving is particularly desirable for the same reason that it is wanted in New York—it gives the mill operatives an opportunity to enjoy a little of God's sunshine after they get out of the factories.

Inasmuch as Massachusetts has many factory cities and not a great proportion of her people on the farms, it would seem that the best interests of the majority would be served by retaining the daylight saving law.

FIRST STREET DISGRACE

With the spring approaching there is yet no move made by the municipal council to have work started on the First street boulevard. There has been much talk relative to this project and in order to have a new plan adopted the municipal council last year was instrumental in having the contract cancelled when work was about to be started by the county officials. It will now be necessary to file a petition with the county commission in order to have the proceedings reopened. It is likely to be a tedious job to have all the preliminaries arranged with the county and the state authorities who will have to pass upon the plans and make the necessary surveys and estimates. The city council is neglecting its duty in this matter and as a result the improvement may be held up for another year and may not be finished for several years.

Meanwhile First street remains a crying disgrace to the city. Very frequently several automobiles are lying in a disabled condition on the rough part of that street as a result of the bumps in trying to negotiate the deeply rutted roadway. It is understood that already many damage claims are coming against the city and it is not at all improbable that some serious claims will have to be met in the future. It would be cheaper in the long run to put this piece of roadway in decent condition. Some weeks ago a gang of men were sent to First street to level off the surface, but very little improvement appeared after they had departed.

So much has been said about the condition of this section of the state highway that it seems the municipal council has become quite indifferent to public criticism of their inaction in regard to the matter. Perhaps it will be necessary for the chamber of commerce to take the matter up or it may even require an indignation meeting of citizens to move the council to take the steps necessary to have First street repaired and have work started as soon as possible on the proposed boulevard.

YOUR FORESIGHT

The greatest maxim that ever lived was Robert Houdin, French conjurer, born in 1805.

But Houdin, after all, was only a human being and the time came when his bag of tricks was exhausted.

At last that was what everyone thought when Louis Napoleon called Houdin to his private gardens and told him to produce a new trick or lose out at court.

Houdin went through a lot of house-pieces and said: "If your majesty will have your old trick box out of its case you will find a gold box and in the gold box a message written by your father 50 years ago."

The oak was felled. The gold box and its message were found.

Houdin, in his memoirs published after his death, confessed that 70 years before, he had foreseen just such a situation and had cut into the oak tree and buried the box.

What do you think of that for foresight?

Yet Houdin's ability to figure years in advance was no more remarkable than the foresight of those who have planned a series of great industries or business enterprises by the real estate movement of cities.

How many years are you looking into the future?

Have you given any thought to your condition 20 years from now?—N.E.A. Editors in Springfield, Oh, dear.

THE SMITH-TOWN PLAN

State Commissioner of Education Payson Smith appeals strongly to the legislature for more substantial aid to the towns in paying their teachers. If his recommendation be adopted, the state would raise $7,000,000 to be distributed among the towns for the purpose of helping to increase the pay of town teachers. Last year the sum raised for this purpose was $1,000,000. There is some difference between this plan and that of the Smith-Town plan. It might be termed the "Smith-town bill." Under the former Massachusetts would have to raise $7,000,000, but it would be expended upon the schools of the south instead of those of Massachusetts. The plan of Commissioner Smith brings before the legislature the duty of our citizens to promote education in every part of the state. If some fail to do so through lack of the progressive spirit, there is no reason why the others throughout the nation should be neglected for its special benefit.

TWO MUSIC CRITICS DIE

The New York World will have the sympathy of its contemporaries on the death of two distinguished members of its staff within a week of each other, both dying very suddenly. Both were music critics, James Gibbons Huneker, who died last week, being an authority on all musical matters, and Sylvester J. E. Hawling, who died Wednesday of a shock, was also an eminent musical and dramatic critic. Specialists of this class are very rare. They are usually men who arose to their positions by natural talent rather than by special training. As a rule they are the delight of artists, authors, actors and people of culture generally on account of the ease with which they can decide between the productions of real art and those lacking in genuine merit.

THE BURNING OF CORK

Premier Lloyd George announces that the expected report of General Strickland on the burning of the city of Cork will not be published. It is supposed to shield the government; but the premier in spite of his readiness to cover up the atrocities committed by the army of occupation in Ireland, has had to admit that the Black and Tans did the work, and nobody was punished for the reason that the Black and Tans were given carte blanche authority to carry out reprisals wherever, whenever, and in whatever manner they pleased. That is why the people of England are disgraced over the policy of frightfulness now in force in Ireland.

Miss Tubby, secretary of the American Society for Hygienic Research, says that it is expected that a spirit message will soon be received from the late Prof. William James. It may be hoped that, if the message is received, it will show that the professor has not revised his earthly opinion of the society and its varied assortment of lunatics.

The suggestion was made at the charter hearing in Boston that it would be desirable that a city clerk should hold office during life or good behavior. If we could be assured that future occupants of the office in Lowell would be of the ability and capacity of Stephen Flynn, the suggestion might receive unanimous approval.

We should have more confidence that the time was here when the lion and the lamb were to lie down together and swords were to be beaten into pruning hooks, if we did not hear quite so much about nations attempting to eat each other in producing poison gases.

It is reported that at a recent social function, the wife of the president of the French republic wore "a sheath-like gown of pearl brocade." Thankfully, Lowell still lingers some ways behind Paris in matters sartorial.

Scientists tell us that the ocean is devouring Cape Cod, but the Right Arm of the Old Bay State has struck back effectively at its ancient enemy through many, many years, and can, perhaps, be depended upon to continue.

We wonder if some of the news editors, who are featuring "curious" sickness episode, remember that one of the principal titles to fame that he has among decent citizens is known as "the monkey house incident?"

Senator Reed was not far astray when he termed the efforts to pass the Penney tariff bill as "the buccannering expedition which this congress is about to undertake."

The hotel employees are not to get one day off in seven, by law, and a good many of them will continue to get a goodly part of each one of the seven days off from laboring hard except when they are looking for tips.

It is reported that a number of automobiles belonging to the city are driven about town without the usual mark of municipal ownership. Whose business is it to look after such matters?

The annual bill for the abolishment of capital punishment is again before the legislature. An act to abolish the same was refused to let the Jesse Le Cornant for awhile is now in order.

If you do not waste to a municipal councilor proposing against a useful extravagance in city government, then gracefully swallow your medicine in the shape of a high tax rate.

Commissioner Marchand, wanting a new auto for his department, seems to have got into the race for new machines after the going was good.

It is being proved by arguments on both sides of the park-house problem that a little learning is a dangerous thing.

Angell says to the new president of Yale, to be a reformer, not a reformer, but the Eli bulldog, think of him?

"Severe Storm Moving This Way," says a headline. Has the weather man been in Lowell lately only lately?

How many years have you looking into the future?

SEEN AND HEARD

Lucky the 1920 spender who saved his income tax as he went along.

Camouflage experts—the budget makers.

Many solutions of the housing problem have been suggested but none better than the one to build some houses.

Railroad fares being what they are, and writers are hard put to it getting the fare into their travel accounts.

The fact that there are a few "red" teachers in our schools doesn't excuse us for underpaying the loyal ones.

Mr. Auckland Steedman had better bring his oil can back with him if he expects to wheedle Uncle Sam out of those war debts.

This business of telling a fellow who has committed a misdemeanor to get out of town doesn't sound very good. It comes under the head of "passing the buck," for it's the day's job not that he'll go elsewhere and repeat the offense.

Sophocles told a friend that nature has left man in this unstable equilibrium just the satisfaction from the possession of that which he struggles to get rid of him of his ambition for new conquests. "Yes," replied his friend, "the struggle to obtain is the great gymnasium of the race."

"What a heavenly expression!" exclaimed Miss Sybil in Bulwer's "Kenelm Chillingly" as she gazed at the baby, "it seems so grived to have left the angels!" "That is exactly what," replied the clergyman, "but that infant must pick up courage and fight his way among mortals with a good heart, if he wants to get back to the angels again."

She Knew the Truth

"Both of these here gents," said the witness, Mandy Thomas, rather impressed with the importance of being in court, "was standing at the corner conversing with each other pretty hot and pointed like."

"Relate the conversation," said the prosecutor.

"Ah, don't just remember, sah," said Mandy, thoughtfully, "but dat day was callin' each other what dey is—Pittsburg Post."

Spreads Spirit of Snails

Tens of folks know how to smile. Trouble is, not so many know how to keep the smile from coming off.

There's a clam named Herbert Leon Cope who's been going up and down the country now for years and years making a cheerful business of telling folks how to keep smiling. Here's a few of "Kill-the-Blues Cope's" recipes for the "Smile that Won't Come Off."

"You never had a trouble that wasn't funny to somebody when it happened and wasn't funny to you later. Make it funny to you when it happens. Count your blessings, not your cursings. You always have a lot more to laugh at than to cry at, if you can only find the laugh things. I'm a smarter man than Solomon. So are you. Suppose you called him: 'Oh, Sol, I'm over and tickle this carburetor! He'd think you were crazy. He didn't know it all. World's getting wiser. Folks laugh at joking things, but because folks don't make love sensibly. If they did, nobody'd laugh. But I'll bet nobody ever made real love sensibly. Can't be done. There's always more cheerful things than there are sad. Count 'em over when you're mad."

More Power to Them

Is married life a failure? Not according to Daniel and Mary Reneker, who live in perfect peace and harmony in their little cabin near Mt. Zion, Ia.

They have given married life a more thorough trial than any other couple in the country and pronounce it a success, positively and absolutely. Daniel and Mary Reneker should know whereof they speak, too, for they have been married for 75 years, and for that that space of time they have lived in the same homestead. In 1846 the bride and groom left the little Ohio town where they were wed to "go west." They floated down the Ohio to the Father of Waters, and then turned their course north. Into the wilderness they plunged and the stalwart husband cleared a piece of land he purchased for a dollar and here and built the house which they have always occupied. And in spite of all hardships, as the fairy book says, "they lived happily ever after." Daniel is 92 years old and his wife is 97 years of age. They have four sons living, the eldest 72 and the "baby," Dr. John Reneker, is 54 years old and a member of the Nebraska state legislature. Seventy-five years ago—and it seems like yesterday to the loving couple—they began married life in their little home "and let the rest of the world go by."

A Friend

A friend is one who's lived awhile and learned a world of stuff; Who smiles a kind of patient smile Though things be smooth or rough.

A friend is one who's tried you out; Who's heard your every plan; Who knows all your weakness and your doubt; And says, "I like that man."

A friend is one who stands a lot; Who tells you you're a sinner; And after that, as the psalmist, Invited you out to dinner.

A friend is one who knows your faults; Who doesn't like his own; Who'd rather walk with one who halts Than plod along alone.

"GOLD KAISER COMING" TO UNITED STATES

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—Hugo Stinnes, the "gold kaiser" of Germany, is soon going to America. In announcing his intention, Stinnes said:

"I believe there are many ways in which American and German industry can co-operate, and that end I will seek."

Stinnes is the man who nearly broke up the Spa conference when he shook his fist at Premier Millerand of France and said: "The allies won't get the German coal they want; no, sir, not even if they station snipers at the mouth of every pit I own."

Stinnes is the German coal king, possessor of 3,000,000,000 marks, owner of 70 newspapers and dictator of a gigantic chain of industries.

He is termed "the man of the hour" in Germany. He surpasses the ex-kaiser in the magnitude of his schemes. Just before the war Stinnes and associates bought mines in England and Turkey and were reaching out to pick up colonies in Virginia.

"Coal is the true king," he told Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, just after shaking his fist at Millerand. "From coal you go on to iron and steel, and then to ships and forests, wood pulp and paper."

He was born to the coal business. He inherited 2,000,000 francs from his father, and his activities in the coal market when only 20, threw him into associations with the great steel and coal magnate, August Thyssen.

Stinnes was 34 when he bought up the coal and iron interests in the Dutch-Luxembourg regions. In the following eight years their value rose from 20,000,000 to 120,000,000 marks.

Then he built a fleet of ships and hoisted he would shortly control the German merchant marine.

Next he added 21 competing street railways in Mannheim to his holdings and he took over 230 miles of car lines in other cities.

Stinnes expected a German defeat in the war, and so played both ends against the middle, realizing colossal profits.

Stinnes is leader of the people's party of Germany, and a member of the reichstag. He undermines the influence of trade unions upon his employees by granting larger increases of pay than are asked for.

When his miners demanded his mines he said, "Take them, but you'll beg me to return."

Stinnes was born in 1870 in Mulheim, not far from Düsseldorf. His father was of pure Teutonic blood, while his mother was French.

Temperamentally Stinnes is a democrat, explosive and endowed with an impish humor. His domestic life is simple and devoted. His wife is a woman of rare charm and capacity, whose father was a wealthy German trader. He has six children, two daughters and four sons.

Sore Throat Chest Colds

Won't Last Many Hours When Begy's Mustard Gets on the Job.

No mustard plaster that any grandmother ever made goes after inflammation and congestion like Begy's Mustard, that you can buy at any drug store in a yellow box for 30 cents, and, best of all, there isn't one blister in a whole carload.

Often when you rub it on at night the inflammation is gone in the morning.

But if it isn't all gone, the relief you prayed for is certain.

And it acts just as fast when used for lumbago, neuralgia, the pains of rheumatism and gout or for sore, aching feet.

In fact, for all aches and pains, soreness and swellings, nothing you can buy at any drug store will produce the hoped-for result as quickly as Begy's Mustard, in the yellow box—made of real yellow mustard. It's the Quickest Pain Killer on Earth.

ENGLISH UNITY AND SELF-GOVERNMENT

(New York World Editorial)

"Neither Irish unity nor Irish self-government," says King George in opening parliament, "can be attained by resorting to methods of criminal violence."

The man in the street puts it more briefly: "You'll not free Ireland by shooting a policeman from behind a stone wall." This is quite true. It is also true—though the king's speech reflects to mention it—that neither Irish unity nor Irish self-government can be attained by reprisals directed against the relatives and neighbors of men who are suspected but not proved guilty of "criminal violence." That too has been tried.

Large areas in Ireland are cursed by conditions which have not been tolerated in England since the county families stopped painting their bodies blue with woad. In savage communities tribal justice is administered: if a murder is done, you do not bother to hunt the killer. You take it out of the village. But that system of law is a relic of freedom slowly broadening down from precedent to precedent.

A very practical man is Mr. Lloyd George. Reprisals have not been tacitly permitted without some faith in their effectiveness. They put a pressure on innocent persons to stop the war, if they can—just as tribal justice does in the case of the military, who dislike being shot at and never shooting. And by shot at and never shooting, the minister without interference by Irish members of parliament.

"The situation in Ireland still causes me distress," says King George. It causes distress also to most thinking Englishmen and to friends of England throughout the world. It would be better if the king could say that means had been diligently sought, and possibly found, to end that shocking situation.

SLEEPING SICKNESS BOLULINUS POISONING

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Feb. 18.—Belief that many, if not all, the cases recently diagnosed as sleeping sickness throughout the country may have been bolulinus poisoning, was expressed today by Dr. J. H. Kellogg of this city.

He initiated research based on the theory shortly after three deaths occurred in Grand Rapids from bolulinus poisoning, which laboratory tests traced to preserved spinach.

Laboratory tests are now being made at Ann Arbor with the brain of a victim of sleeping sickness.

SIMON SWIG'S BANK CLOSED

Tremont Trust Co. of Boston
Ordered Closed By Bank Commissioner

Charges Violation of Banking Laws—Swig Charges
Conspiracy

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Tremont Trust Co., which has aggregate deposits of $17,000,000 in savings and commercial accounts from many parts of New England, kept its doors closed today, as a result of the action of Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen in taking over its affairs late yesterday afternoon. Although it was the fifth institution of its kind in this city to be closed by the commissioner in the past five months, the suspension had no noticeable effect among other banks of the city by which it was regarded as an independent.

The posting of a notice after banking hours yesterday had discounted the closed doors of today and only a few depositors and others passed through the police lines in front of the bank offices in Seelye Square to see the brief statement. Bank Commissioner Allen said he had nothing to add to his supplemental statement of yesterday that violation of the banking laws and impairment of the capital had made his action necessary. Simon Swig, vice president of the bank and its most active spirit, announced that depositors in both the savings and commercial departments were certain to get 100 cents on the dollar. He asserted the capital was not impaired, and that the closing was due to a conspiracy. The closing of the Tremont followed that of the Cosmopolitan, Fidelity, Prudential and Hanover Trust companies which went to the wall last fall in a period of rigid inquiry and public excitement growing out of the collapse of the Ponzi quick-rich bubble. The Tremont was under a heavy pin at the time and with other banks was forced to declare a 90 day moratorium on savings withdrawals so that in effect the closing of today merely marks a prolongation of the period of suspension to savings depositors.

FARRELL QUESTIONED ON ROW AT MATTICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell, who came to blows with Lieut. Walter Hinton at Mattice, Ont., after their balloon adventure into Canada, testified yesterday before the national board investigating the incident that he could not remember clearly what had taken place owing to his physical condition at the time. He admitted that just before the altercation he "heard swearing," but could not remember beyond that. Hinton, he stated, had given him no cause for striking the blow.

After Hinton visited him in the house of a Hudson Bay Trading Co.'s employee, Farrell explained that he fell asleep and when he awoke Lieut. Hinton asked him to "get together" with Hinton. He told Hinton, he testified, that if he had done anything wrong he was sorry, and later apologized to Hinton. Farrell's attorney tried to show that Hinton could not state positively that Farrell had struck the blow. He asked Hinton whether Farrell's position after the clash might not have been that of defense from a blow struck by some one else. Hinton replied he "supposed that might be so."

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 18.—An announcement that Lieut. William H. Coney of the 31st aero squadron would attempt a 21-hour flight across the continent despite the mishap to his competitor, Lieut. Alexander Pearson, who fell in the Big Bend country in Texas, was made today at North Island.

Lieut. Coney plans to eat at Rockwell field here at 5 p. m. next Monday and to have his next dinner at Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. To achieve this, he must fly 2070 miles in less than 24 consecutive hours.

SKILTON PROTESTS GAME

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The game in which the Boston Athletic Association team won the championship of the eastern section of the United States amateur hockey league last night, was protested today by Captain Raymond Skilton of the Shore Trades club. The protest was based on the debut of George Dufresne, a Canadian member of the Shore Trades team, who failed to establish his amateur status, and on a delay of more than two minutes to allow a Boston A. A. player to obtain treatment for an injury. Boston won the game after two 10 minute overtime periods, 6 to 3.

CHELMSFORD EXTENSION SCHOOL

Interesting meetings of the Chelmsford extension school were held today at the town hall and Congregational church of the centre village, the men meeting in the hall and the women in the church. At the men's meeting the subjects discussed were "Poultry" and "Salt Fertility," while at the women's meeting the topics of discussion were "Household Economy," "Business Methods in the Home," "My Family Well Fed," while "Clothing Efficiency" was also discussed at length. At noon dinner was served in the church.

school buildings, he said, was a sufficient drawback on the school schedule, without having it lengthened by feeling or conversation among the students. He compared the high school schedule of studies, requiring certain things to be accomplished on certain dates, to the train schedule of the railroad. "If a train is late," he said, "then things go wrong all along the line. What we want you to do is to keep the high school trains on time. Our definite schedule must be put through on time."

Through the courtesy of the management of Keith's, elaborate stage settings were arranged for the first number, a musical dance, by ten girls. The participants were attractively adorned in colonial costumes, and in going through the evolution of the dance they made a very pretty picture. Considerable preparation, under the direction of the girls' physical training instructors, had been given to this feature.

The climax of the exercises was in the offering of the third act from John Galsworthy's famous play, "Abraham Lincoln." It was originally staged in a suburb of London, but since that time it has become famous in the United States, England and, even more recently, it was produced in France. The scene is the reception room at the White House at a time when the great Civil War was beginning to wear upon Lincoln's wonderful courage and physique.

The part of Abraham Lincoln was only taken by Gregory McDermott. The other characters were dressed in the costume of Lincoln's day and displayed excellent dramatic skill. The act of Mr. Walden Foster, a negro, 72 years old, was taken by David Connors.

The modest and demure Mrs. Lincoln was played by Shirley Harris; the frivolous, heartless, selfish and forward speaking Mrs. O'Neilly, who urges Lincoln to keep up the war, but declares that her own husband cannot go because he cannot be spared from his war contracts, was played by Margaret Kelley; and Mrs. Elbow, poor and heart-broken mother, who lost her son in the war, was excellently acted by Helen Chadwick.

Miss Mary C. Joyce, education instructor, had charge of training the cast.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED

Some improvement has been noted today in the condition of Paul Bernier, the 12-year-old boy who was struck by an electric car in Broadway yesterday morning. The attending physicians at the Lowell Corporation hospital have not yet been able to determine whether or not the little fellow is suffering from a fractured skull, and although they say he is not yet out of danger, his chances for recovery are much better today than they were yesterday. The little fellow is a pupil at the Bartlett school and the news of the accident caused grief among the pupils and teachers.

DOESN'T WANT HUSBAND WITH TIN EARS

Tin ears don't worry Lew Tandler, Philadelphia lightweight. They do his wife. "I don't want a husband with tin ears," says Mrs. Tandler. "I don't intend ever to have him," says Tandler, the fighter. "When I train for a bout I wear ear muffs."

When I'm in the ring I do the proper thing myself.

Tandler, the brawler of a few years ago, is now a wealthy Quakertown landlord at the age of 24.

He owns a three-story brick home, a smart motor-car, and is worth over $100,000.

During his career as a prizefighter, he has caused him to be called the "Chinese puzzle" of the ring.

He's a southerner, sending and receiving challenges from Benjie Louard, has come to be one of his partners.

Phil Glassman, also an ex-prizefighter, who is Tandler's pal and manager, thinks it's time to send him down after the title.

Last year, Glassman invaded Leonard's home in New York.

So round the man who says such mean things about my darling boy," said Leonard's mother.

But Glassman made a friend out of the champion's mother and they had tea together.

A meeting between Tandler and Leonard is believed near now.

It's one of the few choice matches that will stir up wide interest when pulled off.

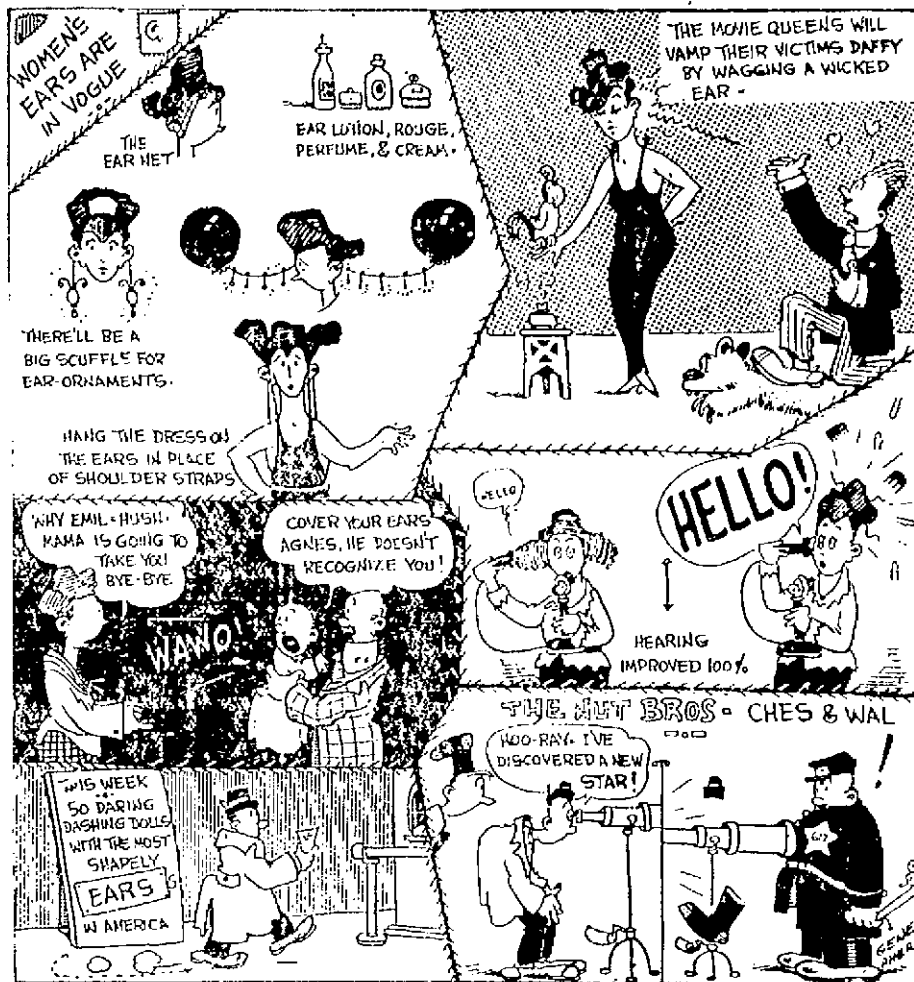

Four promoters are after it.

When it's over, Tandler may have a tin ear.

But Quakertown is ready to squander its last "red" that he'll have the crown instead.

BORAH NOT TO WAIT NOD FROM HARDING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Emphatic notice was given in the senate yesterday by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, that he would not "abdicate" his judgment to that of President-elect Harding during the next four years.

Senator Borah's declaration came at the conclusion of a sharp clash with Senator McCormick, republican, Illinois, over the question of disarming.

The latter had charged that the naval disarmament proposals of Senator Borah would "disarm" Mr. Harding, in arranging for a general disarmament council.

Disclaiming any desire to harass Mr. Harding, Senator Borah, in reply, said:

"We have heard much criticism in the last few years of waiting for a nod from the White House. Congress has been accused of abdication not only its judgment, but its functions. Let me say here, without disrespect to the president-elect, that I shall not abdicate my judgment any more during the next four years than I have during the past eight."

Declaring that proposed appropriations for the army and navy bordered "on madness," Senator Borah demanded that the republican leaders submit some definite program looking to their reduction.

Senator McCormick said that Senator Borah's proposals as to disarmament would "disarm" President-elect Harding in any possible negotiations, looking to a disarmament agreement among the powers.

Senator Borah told the senate he was willing to follow any program the republican leaders would outline, but insisted that some program be forthcoming.

PAGEANT IN MINIATURE

Colonial Party Featured by Costumes of Ye Olden Times at Y. M. C. A.

A pageant in miniature, in which local women displayed the costumes of Colonial times and periods intervening up to the present day, was a feature of the Colonial party and entertainment held yesterday afternoon and evening at Y.M.C.A. hall. The affair was under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the association, and followed the regular monthly business meeting of the organization.

An extended and varied program constituted the activities of the day. Rev. H. A. Cornell introduced the entertainment with a brief address. The following numbers were then given during the afternoon: "Six Little Grandmothers," a one-act sketch, and

Buy Oranges for Weight Juice Makes Them Heavy

The food and health values of oranges are in the juice. In buying these enticing and healthful fruits be guided by the weight. Juice makes oranges heavy. Therefore, the heavier they are, the better. According to Department of Agriculture investigations, orange juice contains more units of food-value than oysters, oatmeal gruel or beef juice. Medical authorities agree that the vitamins which science has found so essential to health are supplied in liberal quantity in the juice of ripe oranges.

Sealdsweet Oranges—Better Because Juicier

Sealdsweet oranges are better because juicier. The superiority and greater juice content of Sealdsweet oranges is proved by the heavier weight. Sealdsweet oranges will be at their best for the next three or four months—fully matured and weighty with juice.

Select oranges for weight to insure plenty of juice—and you will choose the Sealdsweet kind in preference to all others. Tell your fruit dealer that you want Sealdsweet oranges and expect him to supply them to you—he will do so if you insist.

Sealdsweet Grapefruit—Tune the Meal: Tone the System

Appetizing and delightful, Sealdsweet grapefruit are healthful themselves and assist the digestion of other foods. The larger the size, the better the fruit. True food-fruits, beneficial with every meal.

The bigger and better Sealdsweet grapefruit offered by the Florida groves when the crop is fully matured can be had for the rest of the winter and during the spring. Ask your dealer for them.

A Gift For You, Book "Florida's Food-Fruits"

After a buffet lunch had been served under the direction of Mrs. Thos. Adams, the following (taking part): Mrs. Midge, Mrs. Myers, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Schaffer, Mrs. Poplin, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Wagoner. "The Love Torment of Gypsy" was recited by Belle Harrington. Ball, together with other pieces, and a musical was danced by Master Bernard Knopf and Miss Doris Conley. Mrs. Dorothy Leach accompanied the dance on the piano. Mrs. E. J. Spaulding headed the committee on entertainment and the hall was decorated under the direction of Mrs. Nathan Puffer. The evening closed with refreshments of ice cream, cake and cake.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS Tuesday morning, Washington birthday, a requiem mass will be celebrated at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock for the deceased members of the Order of Columbus. All members will be expected to attend. The regular meeting of Bishop De Lancy assembly, fourth degree, was held last night. Rev. Francis J. Mulvey gave an instructive address. Father Navigator William Gallagher presided. At the next assembly of the council, Thursday evening of next week, John Cody of North Adams will give a talk on "The Textile Printing Industry." The following have been appointed to make arrangements for the annual concert and ball to be held at the Rialto Ball on April 6: Timothy Bohan, chairman, John E. Hart, Charles J. Lander, George F. Toye, William J. Smith, Arthur J. Kelly, James E. Marchant, Charles M. McCarthy and Henry J. Smith.

DUFFY GETS DECISION CONTRACT WITH VALGER
IN GREAT BOUT SHOWS HE "DUCKED"

Duffy, of Everett, who jumped in as an eleventh hour substitute for Benny Valger, who broke his contract with the local promoter, put up a whole of a bout against Johnny Drumme of the Jersey City Lightweights at the Crescent A.A. last night and at the end of 10 terrific rounds was awarded the decision.

While many disputed Duffy's right to the verdict, none disputed that he gave a wonderful exhibition against the Jersey leader, who has boxed all the notable bouts since Leonard and Duffy had a weight advantage over Drumme and he used it for all it was worth. He used a long left success-fully and many times held the on-rushing Drumme off by jabs to the head. Drumme, however, was an artistic workman on the inside, and when he did break through, he inflicted considerable body punishment. Drumme acted like a jumping jack, and puffed in and out, with remarkable speed and agility. His legs, however, did not seem to make much of an impression on the Everett lad, and he fought back on every occasion. Drumme had a big lead in the early rounds, but Duffy came stronger as rounds passed. Both were battling furiously at the finish and the pair left the ring amid clamorous applause. The bout was a most satisfactory one and undoubtedly proved Duffy a better man than would have a Valger-Drumme bout.

Steve Gustaf, the aggressive, lightning-like workman from South Boston, added another victory to his list after a thrilling eight round, mill with Barney Burke of Lawrence. There was action every second of the journey and while Burke stayed in there and fought a fine battle, Gustaf's superiority could not be denied.

Young Christo of Lowell and Jack Mansfield of Lawrence met in the open- ing bout and it was a lively number. Both are strong and hit with terrific force. In the second round Christo sent Mansfield against the ropes with such force that the referee post gave way. In the third round Christo sent Mansfield to the floor as the bell sounded and in the 4th he dropped him to stay while the referee counted ten. The show was a good one and the large crowd voiced its appreciation many times. Frank Murphy, of Lowell, who has just recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia, was back on the job as a judge. The referee judge was Thomas Kegan of Lawrence. Tommy Sullivan, of Lawrence, was the referee and his work was highly satisfactory.

BIG TRACK MEET IN
BOSTON NEXT TUESDAY

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Yale and Massachusetts Institute of Technology will meet in a two-mile relay race at the American Legion track games here on Washington's birthday. It was announced today. An effort is being made to match Corporal Guillemot, the French runner now in New York, Gordon T. Nieldhouse, the conqueror of the Englishman, Montague, at Philadelphia last year, and Walter Higgins, Columbia university's star runner in a three-mile race. A cablegram has been sent to Guillemot to compete, and the answer is expected in a day or two.

Guillemot Training For Race
NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Corporal Joseph Guillemot, the little French Olympic champion runner, today completed training for the special 3000 metre race.

In the Madison Square garden games tomorrow night, his trainers reported that he is in first class condition. He has attracted considerable attention at Columbia university where he has been practicing. Compared with American collegiate runners, he has no form. He runs like a schoolboy, kicking his heels in the air and flapping his arms. All observers admit, however, that he has speed. His legs stretch out to a remarkable degree at the height of his stride and he has displayed great strength in sprinting races. He is the widely spread report that he trains on beer and cigars. He observes virtually the same training rules that are in vogue among American athletes.

MERRIMACK MILLS
BOWLING LEAGUE

With only one more week for the season to close, the splinters and machinists of the Merrimack Mills Bowling League are tied for first place. On Monday the machine shop will roll the splinters and the splinters will roll the machine shop. One point lost by either team will probably settle the race.

The individual records set up in the league are as follows: High team single, 549, splinters; 517, machinists; 509, carpenters. Three string team totals: Splinters, 5257; machinists, 4475; carpenters, 4422. Individual three string totals: Reimold, 337; Maxine, 329. Single stringers: 123, Chapalaine, 131; Lane and Moss. The team standing is as follows:

Team	W	L	Games	Pinfall
Machinists	60	12	19	26745

CAVALLA and Xanthi; Smyrna and Samsoun—world-famous for their spicy aroma and delicate flavor—certainly they make for a smoother, better-tasting cigarette.

BRIEF BUT IMPORTANT
WIRE DESPATCHES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The conference report on the bill for government regulation of cold storage was adopted today by the senate without discussion or a roll call. It now goes to the house for final approval.

PARIS, Feb. 17.—Premier Briand had a conference today with the war minister, M. Barthou, Marshals Foch and Petain, Major General Mead, chief of staff, and General W. Rigand. Later he also saw General Franchet d'Espèrey, who has just returned from Siberia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—At its first session today the executive committee of the democratic national committee withheld action on the petition of Thomas B. Love of Texas, asking for the full committee at St. Louis or some other central city on March 4. It was decided to hear other signers of the petition before taking a vote on the proposal.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 17.—More trolley cars were in operation and more lines of track open today than at any time since the United Traction Co. began on Feb. 8 its attempt to break the strike of its 1200 carmen who quit work nearly three weeks ago in protest against a 75 per cent wage reduction.

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The deadlock between the employers and the workmen of the building trades in this city as a result of which 15,000 men are idle and construction of buildings retarded at several million dollars has been stepped, remained unbroken after a conference between the parties in interest at city hall today.

ROME, Feb. 17.—(By Associated Press)—Pope Benedict is inclined to confer on Archbishop Dougherty of Philadelphia, when he is made a cardinal, the title church of St. Pancras, on the summit of the Janiculum, on the right bank of the Tiber and adjoining the ancient Aurelian gate, not far from the American academy. This church is on one of the highest hills of Rome.

WORCESTER, Feb. 17.—Captain Slater Washburn, Massachusetts state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today resigned his office and also resigned his membership in Homer G. Wheaton Post of Worcester, because, he said, members of the post had been trying to influence him, as a member of the Worcester city council, to vote against bills to give the chief of police more power over his department.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Nineteen states will join with Wisconsin in challenging before the supreme court Feb. 25 the right of the Interstate Commerce commission to regulate state railroad rates under the transportation act, it was announced today after a two days' conference here of attorney generals of 12 states.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 17.—Misson William A. Jones of the Catholic Hospital of Porto Rico, died in St. Joseph's hospital here today. He was 54 years old and a member of the Augustinian order.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—One hundred and twenty-eight immigrants allowed to enter this country through the port of Boston were found to be vermin-infected when they arrived here today by train, Health Commissioner Copeland announced.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Impeachment charges brought against Federal Judge Landis by Representative Wetly of Ohio, will be considered Tuesday by the House Judiciary committee, Chairman Volstead announced today.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 17.—Jack Albridge, 35 years old, who was recently indicted on the charge of stealing 11 cases of whiskey valued at $2600, was today sentenced to serve 10 years in the state penitentiary by a jury in circuit court.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—One death from sleeping sickness and four new cases were reported here today. This week 35 cases and three deaths have been recorded, making 49 deaths and 157 cases since Jan. 1.

PAINTING PRESENTED
LOWELL HIGH SCHOOL

An oil painting of Miss Mary Ann Webster, teacher in Lowell public schools from 1859 to 1911 and in the Lowell high school for 31 years, was presented to the high school yesterday. The presentation was made through a provision in the will of Mrs. Harriot Francis Brock, nee Howe, a graduate of the high school, who died in 1917. This provision set aside a bequest "for a work of art to be presented to the high school."

A committee comprising Miss Mary G. Stevens, Miss Marietta Cassidy, Miss Margaret V. Spear, Miss Elizabeth Irish, and Miss Adelaide Baker, chairman, all present teachers in the high school, was appointed to choose the work of art. The result of its decision, after patient and exhaustive search for a suitable subject, was the oil painting of Miss Webster, executed by Miss Elizabeth Morse Walsh of this city, and unveiled by Miss Baker today.

The committee requested that the painting be hung in the hall of the new high school when completed, but temporarily it will remain in room one of the main building, where Miss Webster taught her classes for so many years. Later, it will be put on exhibition in the public library.

Miss Webster was first assistant to

ALLEN'S APOLOGY WAS ON OWN INITIATIVE

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Major General Henry T. Allen's apology to Germany regarding the attempt by two agents of the U. S. department of justice to arrest Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft officer, at Elberach in January, was made upon the general's own initiative and not ordered by Washington, says a Coblentz dispatch to the Paris edition of the Chicago Tribune. The message quashed Allen's statement that he was a commander of American troops in the Coblentz occupation area.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Police Assistance Required at Gagnon Company's Sale

There was a mad rush and a wild scramble when the doors of the store of the Gagnon company at the corner of Merrimack and Third streets were thrown open last evening. Long before the time set for the opening of the store there was a crowd of several hundred persons at each of the two doors of the establishment and when the word was given that the "sale was on" the people became frantic in their efforts to reach the basement, where over 10,000 pairs of men's shoes and children's shoes were on sale at prices varying from 25 cents to $2.98. An extra force of about 25 clerks was put to work in the shoe department this morning, but before the forenoon was over it was found necessary to call upon some of the regular employees of other departments to lend a hand. So big was the crowd that had read the sale advertisements that five minutes after the doors were opened, it was necessary to send in an emergency call to the police station for officers and upon the latter's arrival the doors were closed and one "bluecoat" was stationed at each entrance, while another was placed at an exit in the alley in the rear of the store for the purpose of directing persons out of the place after their bargaining was over. As fast as buyers left the store, others were admitted and this way of doing business was kept up all forenoon.

The shoes had been arranged on counters in the basement of the store, and properly marked. Some were in pairs, at 25 cents a pair, while the prices on others varied from 45 cents to $2.98.

The stock of shoes put on sale at the Gagnon company is the old stock of Hill, a local shoe dealer. Some are old fashioned, but they make up in quality what they lack in style. Others that are selling for $2.95 and $2.98 were marked as high as $7 and $9 before they were purchased by the Gagnon company. Joseph Gagnon, general manager of the store, said the sale was even better than anticipated, and added that it was a good demonstration of how the people of Lowell know a bargain when it is offered them. The sale will continue until the large stock is exhausted, he said.

Women's Suits at
Pre-Easter Prices

You Can Make a Material Saving by Purchasing at the Present Time

If you are a woman and anticipate "appearing out in your new Easter suit," you will heed this warning.

Everything points to a general advance over the present prices for the Easter season. Why wait and pay top figures when you can get what you want now, and at prices that are most inviting.

The Merrimack Clothing Co.'s great "Biggest Under Cost Sale" which applies to the women's department as well as the boys' and men's departments, unquestionably presents the greatest line of bargains in high-grade, up-to-the-minute suits, and suits of women, young and old, that can be found anywhere in New England. It's a big claim but a true one, made possible through the action of the directors of the Merrimack in accepting a loss of $20,000 on the stock on hand.

This means, of course, an actual cutting of prices below the wholesale price to the extent of $20,000. And the only way to fully realize what a price-cutting extravaganza this is, is to visit the Merrimack and look over the bargains, particularly in the women's department. Woolen suits, the best garments of their kind tailored and going at just one-half the original price. Walk in, look at the price list, and pay the saleswoman just one-half what it calls for. The same rule applies to coats and a majority of the other articles to be found there.

Again let us emphasize the importance of buying now for the future. You can get a $20 suit or coat for $10, and like bargains in other departments.

Remember Easter is only a short time away and you'll want to appear in your new suit. Why not save money by buying your Easter suit now? Act quickly or you'll regret it—Advt.

BOULGER'S 231-233 Central Street

Quick Action on Quarantine

grown persons have been permitted to enter and leave the sick room in Chapel street in considerable numbers without hindrance.

Agent O'Hare's Opinion

When the criticism of local physicians over the failure of the board of health to establish a quarantine in the case of the Silva girl was brought to the attention of Agent Frank J. O'Hare, of the health office today, he said that the local board had no authority to establish a quarantine in the case as the state board of health had not declared the disease one that is subject to quarantine.

He said that the local board is without authority to act until instructions to do so have been received from state headquarters. He read a list of the diseases in which it is required by law to take prompt action for the protection of the public health. He admitted that no thorough inspection of the case had been made by board of health employees.

When the matter was brought to the attention of Mayor Perry D. Thompson, he said that, while he was the nominal head of the health department and "could hire and fire men," he did not think he had authority to order a quarantine established. He said that, as he understands the law, he has authority to take over entire control of the health department in case a great public calamity is threatened.

To Safeguard Health

When the fact that physicians thought the board of health should take prompt action to safeguard the health of the community by declaring a quarantine in the latest case of sleeping sickness was brought to the attention of Dr. P. E. Carroll, he said that it had been understood, through a newspaper report, that orders were to be issued March 1 by the state board of health that would compel the quarantine of cases of the disease.

Dr. Carroll said at first that the local board had no right to quarantine cases of the disease unless instructed to do so by the state board. He later said that the local board has full power to act, and that the matter would be taken up for consideration at a special meeting of the board tomorrow morning.

Dr. Pierre Brunelle later confirmed the statement of Dr. Carroll as regards the necessity for action, and said that the board would give attention to the case tomorrow or at a regular meeting of the board Monday.

SMALL CLAIMS LAW

Two alleged unpaid debts, one of $32 and one of $10, have been registered at the office of the clerk of court, and are the first claims to be made under the new small claims law. This law makes for a speedy and inexpensive settlement of claims amounting to $25 or less, and has recently been legalized as part of the general laws.

MANY JUVENILE CASES

IN POLICE COURT

Sixteen boys and one girl appeared before Judge Enright this morning at a juvenile session of the police court. The cases required nearly four hours to hear, the session continuing from nine o'clock in the morning until nearly one o'clock in the afternoon, with one brief recess.

Anatole Adrien Briere, sixteen years old, was ordered sent to the Shirley Industrial school, for participating in breaks at the Cook, Taylor & Co.'s store, Macartney's Apparel Shop, and the Boston Wholesale Millinery Co.'s shop. He appealed the sentence, and bonds were fixed at $2000. These were not immediately forthcoming, and he was locked up. His mother stated that she would seek to get bail for him.

Albert J. Desmarais, who also took part in the breaks, was given a suspended sentence to the Lyman Industrial school, as was Emilie Beland, charged with breaking and entering the Cook, Taylor store, and Macartney's. Desmarais is sixteen years of age, while Beland is only 14 years old.

Beland was caught after a pursuit by Officer Fanning in which two shots were fired without hitting the youthful culprit. He was taken to police headquarters where he gave information leading to the arrest of his companions. The boys were escaping by means of the fire escape, when Officer Fanning discovered them. He did not know until he caught Beland that the five were seven boys.

John Greenidge, 14, was sent to the Lyman Industrial school, on charges of having committed a series of local breaks.

Catherine Fenell, a 16-year-old girl, was sent to the Lancaster school for girls. The Fenell girl was a witness yesterday in the trial of John and Mary Delazac, given six months in the house of correction, and fined $100 for keeping a house of ill fame.

Regular Session

At the conclusion of the juvenile session there were two regular police court cases to be heard. Clarence James, charged with improper conduct, was fined $100, which he paid. He was warned that another offence would mean a house of correction sentence.

Frederick A. Mann, who appeared previously with James on a similar charge, has been ill for several weeks, and her case was continued to March 4.

The case of John McLoughlin, who is charged with larceny of cigars to the value of $5, was continued, to give the defendant an opportunity for making restitution.

1000 British Troops With All War Equipment Begin Extensive Series of Raids in Dublin

APPROACHES TO CITY BARRICADED

Machine Gun Posts Established in Dublin Square—Close Search for Arms

Sinn Feiners and Shipyard Workers Clash in Belfast—Serious Rioting

Four Civilians Killed Near Kilbriann, County Cork—Woman Kidnapped

DUBLIN, Feb. 18.—The most extensive series of raids as yet carried out in Dublin, began early today. One thousand troops participated, equipped with motor lorries, machine guns and armored cars.

Disturbances around Mountjoy square and the approaches to that section of the city were barricaded and machine gun posts were established. A close search for arms was instituted, and the extent of the preparations made for the raid indicated there was no expectation of finishing it quickly.

The military isolated about two square miles of the city for an exhaustive search for arms. Popular rumor attributed the operation to a search for Frank Teeling, who escaped recently from the Kilmainham jail, but it probably was only a repetition of a similar raid which lasted 36 hours some weeks ago, during which Church street district was involved in a search for arms and ammunition. Other districts, it is thought probable, will have the same experience later.

SWIG TO NAME "CONSPIRATORS"

Vice President of Boston Bank Closed Yesterday to Issue New Statement

To "Give Place Where Conspiracy Was Hatched, What Was Said and Done"

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—James Jackson, state treasurer, said today he had withdrawn state funds from the Tremont Trust company, closed yesterday by the bank commissioner because he did not believe the bank was being conducted in the best interests of its depositors.

When he assumed office in September, the state deposits in the trust company were $175,000. Early in November the last of the state money was taken out.

Governor Cox said today that he knew of no other banking institution that is under close surveillance by the state authorities.

Attorney General J. Weston Allen said he "might or might not take action in the Tremont Trust case" depending upon future developments. As yet he has done nothing, he said.

Vice President Swig was said to be preparing an amplified statement today which would be given to the public tonight. This statement Judge Louis Swig, counsel for the bank, said would "name the persons who started the conspiracy that brought about the closing of the bank, name the place where it was hatched, what was said and what was done." Depositors would receive dollar for dollar, he asserted, adding that this would be done without any assessment on the stockholders.

Bank Commissioner Allen issued a statement this afternoon saying: "The closing of the Tremont Trust Co. in no way affects any other trust company, national bank or savings bank in Boston or elsewhere. I believe the banking situation to be sound."

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Henry Drucker, president of the borough of The Bronx, today was found to be ill with sleeping sickness.

WILLIAMS AND DELANEY TALK

Eloquence Puts Over School Board Budget Without a Single Cut

Year's Demands of Department Mean Nearly $1.50 Tax Increase

Petition Opposing Packing-house Received From People Called "Real Stuff"

Thomas Delaney and "Business Agent" Henry Williams were the star witnesses before the members of the municipal council at today's session to consider budget estimates. For nearly an hour the two talked almost continuously, each member of the duo taking up the thread of the discourse, which dealt mainly with the reasons why no cut should be made in the appropriation asked for by the committee, which is about $144,000 larger than the amount expended last year.

The members of the council listened with something like heroic patience to the explanations of Mr. Delaney and Mr. Williams as to the reasons why about $1.50 should be added to the tax rate to cover the school appropriations. Both speakers denied that seemed to be salary increases in the budget were anything more than appropriations for pay rates that had been given last year, except that in the case of janitors, it was proposed to create the positions of "head janitors," and that it is planned to give these who get the jobs more pay. It was stated that 11 persons would be affected.

QUICK ACTION ON QUARANTINE

Criticism Stirs Board of Health to Consider Sleeping Sickness Case

Dr. T. F. Carroll Says Special Meeting Will Be Held Tomorrow

Local Physicians Fear Spread of Disease Unless Protective Steps Are Taken

A special action of the board of health is to be held tomorrow morning to take action on the question of quarantining Maria Silva, 16 years old, of 40 Chapel street, who, according to the report of Dr. M. P. Cunha, is suffering from sleeping sickness.

Dr. T. F. Carroll, a member of the board, gave out the information today. Dr. Cunha has stated to a representative of The Sun that his diagnosis of the disease is correct and that it was arrived at only after consultation with other physicians.

That sleeping sickness is an infectious disease is the opinion of members of the state board of health, who have requested all doctors of the state to report suspected cases to their local boards of health; of Dr. D. J. Ellison, who was the attending physician in the case of Mrs. Hannah Robertson, who recently died of the disease in this city; and of Dr. Frothingham of the Peter Bent Brigham hospital of Boston, who was in consultation with Dr. Ellison regarding the Robertson case.

Highly Infectious
Local physicians, who have kept informed regarding the disease, state that in other parts of the country where the malady has appeared it has developed highly infectious qualities, particularly among persons afflicted with the grip, and that the average death rate is well above 20 per cent.

These facts have led a number of leading physicians of the city to criticize vigorously the failure of the local board of health to take some action to protect the public against the spread of the disease. Children and

Remonstrants Get in Their Licks at Hearing Before Committee on Cities

Caruso Gains in Battle for Life—Recovery Now Expected

ENRICO CARUSO AND MRS. CARUSO

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Measuring reports were brought from the sick bed of Enrico Caruso early today. He passed a fairly restful night, his fever was somewhat reduced, his respiration decidedly better, and he was able to take some liquid nourishment several times. This served to induce intermittent periods of slumber.

Statements of friends who visited the apartment were more optimistic than the doctors' cautious bulletins. Despite reports that seemed to portend the singer's recovery, it was admitted that he still was gravely ill and had not yet passed the crisis. He is favored by his indomitable spirit, which has brought him safely through the heart attack and the relapses that have followed. He has been comforted by messages from all over the world, many of which tell of prayers for his speedy recovery. Inquirers were told today that Caruso was much stronger and that he appeared to be better than at any time since he suffered the relapse. He has lost 40 or 50 pounds in weight, however.

In a lengthy chat with Mrs. Caruso today the tenor asked her to relate many circumstances of the last two days on which his memory appeared somewhat hazy. He wanted her to tell him frankly what the physicians thought of his condition and he smiled as she assured him they were no longer alarmed.

Homeyn Benjamin, Mrs. Caruso's brother, said today: "It is quite apparent that Mr. Caruso is wonderfully improved. There is absolutely nothing wrong with his throat."

Fisher H. Pearson Describes Work of Practical Politicians on Commission

Former Mayor Casey Comes Back Strong in Rebuttal—Corbett Speaks

For nearly three hours this morning, the opponents of the proposed new charter for Lowell held the attention of the committee on cities, and it was not until 1:30 p. m. that the committee was able to close the hearing and take the matter under advisement.

Representative Charles H. Stowey characterized the proposed charter as a city manager plan camouflaged with a common council, purely for decorative purposes. He referred to the allegation of the proponents concerning last year's shortage in the water department as the only complaint they had made against the present form of government. He said that that will not be repeated this year, because the department will live within its income.

Representative Owen E. Brennan recorded himself in opposition to the commission's charter. Albert B. White, treasurer of the Massachusetts Police association, said that Lowell is one of the few cities which has not realized the importance of retaining experts at the head of the police department.

The proposed charter not only permits the removal of the chief of police, but it also deprives every police officer of his tenure of office, and permits them to be removed without a hearing before the mayor.

William A. Hogan was the principal speaker today, holding the floor for more than an hour. He said the present charter has given satisfaction for

KILLED BY BLOWS FROM AN AXE

Examination of Body of Alfred Corson Shows Top of Skull Crushed In

Nelson E. Knights Said to Have Confessed That He Killed Corson

CANAAN, Me., Feb. 18.—Alfred Corson, the elderly man whose body was found buried under a hayshed at the home of Mrs. Andrew Welch, four miles from this village, was killed by blows on the head from an axe, presumably while he slept in his room in the eight-tenement house at Dexter.

FATHER MURDERED 16 YEARS AGO

DENTER, Me., Feb. 18.—William Knights, father of Nelson Eugene Knights, Sr., charged with the murder here of Alfred Corson was killed by a blow over the head with a gun during a quarrel due to jealousy, with Rufus Brown, Jr., at the latter's home in West Athens on April 20, 1905. Brown confessed and served 11 years for manslaughter, being paroled in 1916.

Examination of the body, which was found at practically the same moment that Nelson Eugene Knights, son of the 50-year-old woman with whom he was staying when arrested, is alleged to have confessed in Bangor jail to Sheriff Fernandez that he killed Corson, his dead wife's uncle, and hid his body there, showed that the whole top of the skull had been crushed in as if by several blows.

Dr. W. S. Stinchfield of Skowhegan, the medical examiner who performed an autopsy here, said some of the

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAM

Washington and Lincoln Anniversary Exercises Held at Keith's Theatre

Washington and Lincoln birthday exercises were carried out by the high school pupils in Keith's theatre this noon. Students and teachers assembled in the theatre at 11 o'clock. Superintendent Hugh J. Molloy, who has been absent from his duties on account of illness for some time, was present. All class sessions in the high school were cut short to allow time for the exercises, and nearly every available seat in the theatre was occupied by the pupils. While the students marched from the school buildings and filed into the theatre the school orchestra, under the direction of Frederick O. Blunt, played the entrance march and overture numbers.

The program was an elaborate one. No observance was carried out for Lincoln's day and today's numbers combined Washington and Lincoln features.

In an address to the school, Principal Henry Harris took advantage of the opportunity of having the entire school assembled, which is impossible under present conditions at the high school, and urged the students to economize in the time they give in going from one location to another.

The necessary delay by pupils having to go back and forth between the high

NOT WAR HEROINE WHO COMMITTED SUICIDE

PARIS, Feb. 18.—It was Louise Tellez, a nurse, and not Louise Thullier, a Belgian school teacher and war heroine, who committed suicide by swallowing rat poison at her home near Mons, yesterday, says a Havas despatch from Lille. Mlle. Tellez, who was associated with Edith Cavell, the English nurse executed by the Germans in 1918, killed herself after she had been summoned to appear before a magistrate investigating espionage in Belgium during the war. It was alleged she denounced a number of co-workers to the Germans and many of them were put to death by the German forces.

The similarity of the names of the two women misled newspapers here and the suicide was given great prominence. Mlle. Thullier resided in Lille and is much distressed by the erroneous report.

25,000 HOLD STOCK IN TWO COMPANIES

It was brought out at meetings yesterday of the Mutual and Commercial Finance companies, that the two companies have nearly 25,000 stockholders, and that the total paid in capital of both concerns is about $1,500,000. A committee reported that the companies have assets believed to be equal to the amount of $2,000,000, and other assets of doubtful value, but on which a substantial amount may be raised in time.

Patrick F. Sullivan of this city, formerly president of the Bay State street railway, was elected president of both companies.

Leighton, D.D., superintendent of the churches of Massachusetts. At noon luncheon was served by the United Workers of the First church. The speakers at the afternoon session were Mrs. George A. Libby and Rev. B. Perry Bush, D.D. During the day vocal selections were given by Michael Brennan and Miss Rita Thompson, the accompanist being Mrs. Helen C. Taylor.

CHELMSFORD GRANGE

The regular meeting of Chelmsford Grange was held last evening with a large attendance. STORY OF AGED PEDDLER

Awakening to Find Himself
Rich Says He Merely
Wants Comfort

OAKLAND, Cal., Feb. 18.—Alfred Newsome was a peddler of shoestrings when he went to bed.

Next morning he was a millionaire.

But he didn't know it. He got up at an early hour, a life-long habit, strapped up his peddler's cane and started down-town to catch the early shoppers.

In the meantime half a dozen detectives were searching for him.

A letter had come to the Oakland police from Attorney John N. Landberg, of Philadelphia, telling of a fortune that waited one Alfred Newsome.

The letter was accompanied by a photograph of Newsome, taken some years ago, together with the information that Newsome had last been heard from in the vicinity of Berkeley, California.

Newsome Hunted

Newsome, meanwhile, plodded along the side streets, made a few sales and finally fetched up directly in front of "The Club." The Club is a room provided for the unemployed by a church organization. An assortment of jobless men, derelicts and old men who have no other place to go, gather there each day.

To Newsome, aged peddler of shoestrings, many of "The Club" members had become cronies. Newsome walked in. All of his aged cronies were there. It was Wednesday, a day on which they invariably gathered for a checker tournament. The program always opened with a careful study of the lists of jobs, placed on "The Club" wall, but seldom did a position appear to tempt them. The checkerboard beside the warm stove, would finally lure them.

Fortune Enters

Ten minutes after the weekly tournament had gotten under way, fortune came through the door in the form of Police Inspector Peter Van Houtte. He took a card from his pocket and carefully studied Newsome.

"I want to see you for a moment," he said, tapping the peddler on the shoulder. The aged cronies winked suspiciously. It was not uncommon for a policeman to question one of their number regarding a petty theft.

"There's good news for you here," the policeman told Newsome, tapping the circular. "Prepare for a great shock—you're a millionaire."

Won't Believe It

"Huh!" granted Newsome, "I don't believe it."

He was shown the letter, the picture and the description.

"Taint me," he insisted. "Nobody would leave me any money."

"You mean to say you're going to disown a million bucks?" demanded the policeman. "There's no doubt about it, you're it." Newsome shoved the officer away and returned to the checker game.

An hour later another officer came and forcibly took Newsome before the chief of police. There, after an hour of questioning, Newsome was positively identified as the missing heir. The fortune had, apparently, been left by a brother, with whom Newsome had quarrelled as a youth—though there was but meagre information in the letter.

Finally Convinced

"You can't be too sure," said the peddler, made skeptical by years of adversity. He took his pack and returned to work.

As days went by it finally dawned upon the peddler that he was actually a millionaire. A railroad ticket came from Philadelphia, and more letters and telegrams passed.

The first thing he did was to hurry down to "The Club" to tell his cronies. His news brought little more than a slight stir. The old men who haunt the club have grown laconic to fortune and misfortune alike.

"Well, I won't forget you boys, when I get my my hands on the money," he assured them, as he walked out of "The Club" for the last time.

What He Wants

"Now that you can afford almost anything you wish, what's the first thing you will do with your money?" he was asked.

The aged peddler hesitated a moment. Something that strangely resembled a tear appeared in his eye.

"I want to buy a little comfort first of all," he said. "I'm too old for many luxuries. If I said I wanted a wife, I those I'd have ten thousand women running after me."

"I want to buy a little comfort first of all," he said. "I'm too old for many luxuries. If I said I wanted a wife, I those I'd have ten thousand women running after me."

For the last three centuries $2 per cent of Mexico's arable land has been held in large estates.

MINUTE-MAN BURGLAR MADE $1200 HAUL

BEVERLY, Feb. 18.—A minute-man burglar made a $1200 haul after breaking the window of a jewelry store in the business district early today and then vanished. The theft occurred between the 10-minute rounds of a policeman.

When the patrolman passed the store at 3 o'clock he says there was not a person on the street. On his return call, he saw a man wearing a long coat and carrying a bag across the roadway. The policeman thought he was the janitor of one of the buildings as he disappeared into the darkness. The robbery was discovered directly afterward.

THE SHADDOCK BOYS

The Shaddock boys held their first meeting of the season Tuesday evening at the new club rooms and considerable business was transacted. The election of officers for the annual dance resulted as follows: Patrick Flanagan, general manager; Wilfred Charette, floor director; John Richardson, treasurer, and Arthur Turcotte, chief aid.

HUGHES IN CONFERENCE WITH HARDING

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 18.—Specific steps in initiating the foreign policy of the next administration will be passed in final review late today at a conference between President-elect Harding and Charles E. Hughes, who is expected to be the next secretary of state.

Among the problems to be discussed at the conference is the section of Mr. Harding's inaugural address to be devoted to the plan for an association of nations. The address is expected to refer only in a general way to the plan but it is understood that the president-elect wants to have Mr. Hughes' advice before he frames the exact language of the expression.

Diplomatic appointments also are to be considered, although it is believed that Mr. Harding will reserve final judgment on most of the important diplomatic selections until after inauguration.

Mr. Hughes' visit occupied the center of attention today at Mr. Harding's headquarters, the morning being devoted to a number of miscellaneous appointments and to a continuation of the president-elect's conference with Harry M. Daugherty of Ohio, who is understood to have been selected for attorney general.

SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Washington-Lincoln Anniversary Exercises in Schools

Exercises in observance of the birth-days of Washington and Lincoln were held today in most of the public schools of the city. The programs, which were elaborate, were conducted in the assembly hall of each school this afternoon and proved very instructive as well as enjoyable. At the Abraham Lincoln school, the exercises were held yesterday afternoon for the pupils and the program was repeated this afternoon. At the Green, Moody, Parker, and Washington schools the exercises were held in the various rooms, separate programs having been prepared. The programs were as follows:

LINCOLN SCHOOL.
The Washington and Lincoln exercises at the Lincoln grammar school took the form of a pageant, entitled "The Making of the Flag," introducing Betsy Ross and her girls. The children were in proper costume for the occasion. The second part dealt with Lincoln and the big feature was "Dance of the Nations," given Thursday afternoon for children and this afternoon for the parents. The program: Prelude, Spirit of America. She Contracts to Outguess Dame Fashion

(N.E.A. Staff Special)
LONDON, Feb. 15.—Miss Marcello de Saint-Martin has just been engaged by a company of British producers to take up the cudgel against one of the biggest bugaboos of the movies—Dame Fashion.

Owing to the long periods that frequently elapse between the taking and the release of a film, it is a difficult matter in these days of sudden whims, to keep pace with the vagaries of style. The value of many pictures has been greatly reduced by overnight changes in the fashion of gowns before the films were made public.

Don't brush wet furs; let them dry naturally and shake out when dry. Water does not harm furs. Whipping furs is the best way to get dirt out.

Never cut a fur with scissors; use a knife, and on the wrong side, if you wish to change or mend a garment.

The United States weather bureau will study air currents from a station in Montana, on the summit of the continental divide.

Miss Saint-Martin, a young Parisian artist who for some time has been associated with one of the large Bond street firms, will pit her knowledge of couturier fashion and her general acquaintance with style against the whims of society and the inspiration of Parisian dressmakers in the hope that, by outguessing them, she will make more timely and so more valuable the films of her employers.

She has designed many costumes for recent theatrical attractions and has made a serious study of art and its history.

TRAVELING SALESMAN NEVER SAW ITS EQUAL

Hall Says He Had Suffered Ten Long Years Before He Got Tanlac, But Is Now in Best of Health

It is a most noteworthy fact that from Maine to California, and from the Gulf to the northern portion of Canada, and even to far-off Newfoundland, hundreds of traveling salesmen, representing almost every line of business, have testified to having used Tanlac with the most remarkable and gratifying results.

One of the latest is H. H. Hall of 1 Howard place, Springfield, Mass., who represents the Fuller brush company, of Hartford, Conn. While on a visit to his father, Mrs. H. H. Hall in Westpole, N. H., a few days ago, Mr. Hall said:

"Tanalac is the best medicine I have ever come across in all my travels. Four bottles of the medicine have just the same as made me over into a new man. Before taking it I was suffering from what might be called chronic indigestion and I had been troubled with it for ten years."

Urges United States Buy British Fleet

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—"The United States and England ought to co-operate, not compete, in maintaining naval supremacy," says Hoke Smith, United States senator from Georgia.

By co-operation the interests of each would be fully protected, the freedom of the seas maintained, and cordial relations instead of jealousy and distrust fostered," the senator contends.

Unending Race

Otherwise, under the policy of a navy second to none, which President-elect Harding has approved and which house and senate leaders endorse, Sam will go ahead building battleships and naval craft in an effort to overtake England's strength.

England, to hold leadership, will double her building program, necessitating still further naval expenditures by this country.

And so on indefinitely, piling up taxes and armament expenditures on both sides.

"Equality is all we seek," says Senator Smith, "we do not seek domination. We have no thought of aggression."

"Americans and English speak the same language. We have the same purposes. We hold the same views of human rights. There is no reason for competition in military strength."

Equality Needed

"But in the interests of harmonious co-operation there should be equality in strength. England's navy is now approximately 40 per cent larger than ours. If half of this excess, or 20 per cent, were turned over to the United States as a credit upon the amount of Great Britain's indebtedness to us, equality in strength would be established."

"We could then jointly carry the responsibility of keeping the ocean free and protecting the rights of all countries. And neither Great Britain nor the United States would have to build more ships for some time."

CLEANING THE MUFFLER

In cleaning the muffler after taking it apart, it is well to go over all the holes with a punch to make sure that these holes are not reduced in size with accumulations of burned oil or carbon.

FIRE IN TRUNK

The alarm from box 59 shortly after 11:30 o'clock last night was for a blaze in a trunk in the cellar of the house numbered 95 B street.

"I was a great sufferer from the formation of gas on my stomach which seemed to cause pains all through my body. I had had dizzy spells with palpitation of the heart and suffered terribly from constipation and headaches. I got so badly run-down and short of energy that it was showing up in my business, as my sales had fallen far behind."

"My nerves were so bad I couldn't keep still. I would shake and tremble all over, and a good night's sleep was out of the question with me. I was so short of breath I had to sit down while going up some of these hills, but now, as my mother puts it, I can come up the hill to her house like a streak of lightning."

"I would not care about giving a testimonial but for the fact that it is what caused me to take Tanlac and my statement may get others started out on the Tanlac road to good health. My stomach, appetite and digestion are so good now that I eat just anything and am never bothered any more with sourness, gas or a sign of indigestion. I now have energy and nerve force that make work a pleasure and business seems to come much easier. In fact, I am a perfectly well man and don't hesitate to give Tanlac my unqualified endorsement."

Tanalac is sold in Lowell by Green's Drug store under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative, by Wright Drug Co., Billerica, Mass., and by the leading druggist in every town.—Adv.

CASEY IS SUBJECTED TO UNUSUAL GRILLING

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Ex-Mayor James B. Casey, chairman of the Lowell charter commission, was subjected yesterday to a grilling more exhaustive than any that can be recalled by "the oldest inhabitant" at the state house, while he was presenting to the committee on cities the commission's proposed new charter for Lowell.

After forcing the former mayor to discuss the proposed charter, section by section, members of the committee took turns in attempting to tear the commission's work to pieces. While numerous flaws were found, Mr. Casey succeeded in parrying most of the thrusts that were aimed at the commission's document, and he was not at all backward in asserting the correctness of the commission's position on some of the provisions which members of the committee were inclined to treat as "theoretical, rather than practical."

Immediately upon the re-opening of the hearing yesterday afternoon, Chairman Hiles opened the attack, questioning the provision in section 38 that heads of departments may remove their subordinates. He said the civil service department had already entered objection to this provision, on the ground that it constituted a reversal of the state's policy in respect to the civil service.

Mr. Casey said there had been no intention to do anything of that sort, and he consented to an amendment which will make all such removals subject to the civil service laws and rules.

Next the committee took up the section providing for the appointment of a public service board, a novelty in city administration, and the mayor was asked to explain it. "We are not very proud of our streets in Lowell," he replied, "and we believe that the fault lies, not with the commissioner, who is supposed to be responsible, but with the system. We believe that better results will be gained if administration of the streets, sewers and water works is vested in a three-headed board. Last year there was a deficit of more than $100,000 in our waterworks department, and we believe that existing inefficiency can be eliminated if we place in charge of the department such a board as we propose to create."

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches. If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil is very concentrated and a bottle lasts along time. It is a most effective and conservative treatment. It has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country and is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and all ways bear in mind that anyone who is disappointed with its use can have his money refunded. Generous sample on receipt of 15 cents, silver or stamps. International Laboratories, Rochester, N. Y. Your druggist can supply you.—ADV.

gates involved in administering the police department, in addition to the detection of crime," he said. "It is conceivable that you might find at the head of the police department, through a series of promotions, a man who destroyed discipline and lacked the confidence of the men under him. Such a man should not be retained, and the mayor should have power to remove him, no matter what his political influence. On the other hand, there are a lot of men who have had the very finest training in the military police during the war; they have never served on any police force in civil life, yet there would be many of them thoroughly qualified to handle the police department of any large city such as ours. You need only to recall the example of Boston, under former Commissioner O'Meara. He had had no police training of any sort when he became commissioner, yet the police department under his administration made a wonderful record."

The next serious objection came to the section which provides that in case of a vacancy in the council, the remaining members shall appoint the person who received the second highest number of votes at the previous election. It was pointed out that a defeated candidate might, after the election, perform some act which would make him thoroughly discredited, and Mr. Casey was asked whether it would not be better to permit the council to fill vacancies without "strings" of any kind upon their action. A change to this effect was agreed to.

LIEUT. PEARSON CANCEL'S FLIGHT

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 18.—Lieut. Pearson, army aviator, who was lost six days in the barren borderlands along the international boundary, announced today that his contemplated transcontinental flight from Florida to California on Feb. 22, had been cancelled.

CHAIRMAN WHITE WINS VICTORY AT MEETING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Chairman George White, of the democratic national committee and his supporters, came forth victorious last night from a meeting of the national committee's executive committee of 16, the first of a series of conferences of the party's leaders since the November elections.

The executive committee, appointed and called together by Chairman White to discuss reorganization of party machinery, by unanimous vote turned down as impracticable the proposal of Thomas B. Love, of Texas, and 56 other members of the national committee that the full membership of the national committee be called to meet March 1 at St. Louis or some other central city.

The executive committee also adopted a program for reorganization of the party, which Mr. White was understood to have put before the meeting. This program as adopted provides for the appointment by the chairman of a sub-committee of five to devise means of liquidating the $185,000 indebtedness incurred in the last campaign and to prepare a budget of expenses for maintaining headquarters in Washington and for preparation by the chairman of the plan for organization of a woman's bureau of the national committee.

The victory of Chairman White and his forces was augmented through absence from the committee discussions of any suggestion that Mr. White be asked to retire as chairman. The next approach to the matter was the announcement of Robert W. Woolley, former interstate commerce commissioner, who, with Mr. Love, drew up the petition requesting a meeting of the national committee, that the paragraph in the petition which was interpreted in some quarters as a request for Mr. White's resignation had been eliminated.

Committee member Love, who with Mr. Woolley and a half dozen other members of the petition appeared before the committee, denied that he, or the 35 committee members signing the petition, were supporting any one man for presidential nomination in 1924. The denial was made in reply to charges and reports at the time the petition was made public that the two weeks' effort was an attempt to start a movement for William G. McAdoo as the 1924 candidate.

The forces led by Messrs. Love and Woolley, however, were so forceful in one respect. They obtained incorporation in the resolutions adopted by the committee a proviso that when it was impracticable and unnecessary to call a meeting of the full committee at this time, members of the national committee should advise Chairman White of their more deliberate opinion at an early meeting of the full committee should be called.

Favorable action on the Love petition was vigorously opposed by Homer

S. Cummings and Senator Glass, national committee men from Connecticut and Virginia, respectively, who said that while they favored a meeting of the national committee in the near future as an abstract proposition, they were opposed to the present movement in view of the following reasons: That such a meeting would be a hindrance to the party.

Mr. Cummings led the executive committee, with the knowledge that ultimately we are going to have a meeting when, in his discretion, he is best equipped to call the full committee. Mr. Cummings said that he and Mr. Love, who were going to have a meeting when, in his discretion, he is best equipped to call the full committee, would not abandon their efforts to bring about a meeting in the near future.

BAY STATE OWNS 25 ACRES IN NEW YORK

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Ownership of about 25 acres of land in the city of Rochester, N. Y., on Lake Ontario, immediately west of the mouth of the Genesee river, yesterday was conceded to Massachusetts by Herbert W. Pierce, Rochester's commissioner of public works. It is valued at nearly $99,000.

In a joint letter to Gov. Cox, Atty. Gen. Allen and the legislature, Mr. Pierce said that he and Albert W. Shepard, deputy corporation counsel of Rochester, would call on the Bay State officials today to negotiate for Rochester's purchase of the property. Discovery by Rochester that Massachusetts was concerned in title to the land, which it wants to make into a park and recreation grounds, came when the city decided to buy it. Land on Lake Ontario was given to the New York and Massachusetts colonies by the king of England prior to the revolutionary war. Conflicting claims developed over ownership to certain parts of the property and by the Treaty of Hartford in December, 1786, title to the lake and a section of the shore was ceded to Massachusetts. Subsequently Massachusetts sold the land, but retained title to the bed of the lake. Later when the shore of the lake was filled in near Rochester, there came into being about 25 acres which under the treaty of Hartford automatically became Massachusetts' property.

OPPOSE PUNISHMENT OF MAY REMOVE LIQUOR TO

JAPANESE SENTRY

TOKIO, Feb. 18 (By the Associated Press).—Punishment of Toshigoro Ogasawara, the Japanese sentry who shot and killed Lieut. Warren H. Langdon of Boston, chief engineer of the United States cruiser Albany at Vladivostok, late in December, was opposed in a resolution introduced in the Japanese diet today by Representative Zenryuk Tanaka, a member of the kensei-kai, or opposition party. The resolution declared that the action of the sentry was justifiable, and that any punishment visited upon him would militate against discipline in the army. "As a sentry on duty in such a place as Vladivostok and under such circumstances as gave rise to the Langdon affair," the resolution declared, "the conduct of the Japanese private was entirely justifiable, as he acted in self-defense. If the sentry should be punished, perhaps no Japanese soldier in the future will be willing to take up the burden of the duties attaching to sentry, much less to carry out these duties faithfully. From the standpoint of military discipline, as well as that of morality, punishment of the sentry would be a serious travesty on justice."

A regiment of former soldiers in the city of Shizuoka, near Yokohama, has adopted resolutions, opposing the punishment of Ogasawara. Officers, especially those in junior grades, who are going to Manchuria, plan the inauguration of a movement to arouse public opinion, basing their action on the ground that the sentry's punishment would menace the execution of military duty.

Despatches from Vladivostok to the Yomiuri Shimbun, stating that Ogasawara had been found guilty of a breach of discipline, have not been confirmed.

REPORTS BY Y. W. C. A. CAMPAIGN WORKERS

The Y. W. C. A. campaign for funds to carry the organization through the coming year in Lowell has opened auspiciously. It was learned when reports of one day's contributions were read at a luncheon of workers held yesterday at the Y. W. C. A. building. The sum of $1200 has already been secured here, and prospects are bright for even greater success during the remaining period of the drive.

"With such a splendid spirit, you are bound to come through victorious," said Rev. J. L. Cairns, one of the speakers at the luncheon. Rev. Mr. Cairns' prophecy was seconded by others who made brief addresses at the affair.

Miss Bailey, night secretary at the "Y," described some of the phases of the work being done for Lowell girls by the organization, and Mrs. Holden, chairman of the campaign executive committee, introduced several of the workers, who told of some of their experiences during the first day's activities. More than two hundred campaigners in all are participating in the collection of contributions, and less than half of the number have reported. It appears probable that more than half of the total sum required will be obtained during the early part of the drive.

Eight and one-half per cent of all deaths in this country are attributed to heart disease.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Regulations were issued last night by the internal revenue bureau governing the transportation of liquor for beverage purposes in accordance with the recent decision of the supreme court on the question of intoxicants acquired before the advent of permanent prohibition, Jan. 17, 1920.

Each liquor, the regulations provide, may be moved by their owner from a place of storage, to his private dwelling for the use of himself and family or guests entertained there. Permits for the transportation of lawfully acquired liquor, however, must be obtained from federal prohibition directors. Liquor held in bond, however, may not be withdrawn for beverage purposes.

Liquors lawfully obtained before national prohibition, the regulations provide, may be received by the heirs of the deceased owner, who would have the same rights of possession and transportation as the original owner.

All persons possessing lawfully acquired liquor in storage outside their dwellings are required by the regulations to make a report to the prohibition director of their state, within 30 days, showing kinds and quantity owned. No report is necessary covering liquor now held in a private dwelling. Liquor may not be removed or transported in violation of any state or federal law making such removal or transportation illegal, the bureau ruled.

CRAWLEY BROTHERS IN AUTO BUSINESS

William and Edward Crawley have created quite a stir in Lowell automobile circles by announcing their agency for the Paige-Detroit motor cars and trucks, under the head of the Crawley Motor Car Co.

Both of the Crawley brothers are well known in social, commercial and athletic circles. They are at present engaged in the coal business in Rogers street, the business which their father, Edward Crawley, has conducted for a great many years.

The new company will have its headquarters at the First street garage, and it is the intention of the two newcomers in the automobile field to have sales and showrooms second to none in this section of the country. The new company will also have an up-to-date service station. An announcement of their formal opening will appear later.

TO KEEP BASEBALL CLEAN

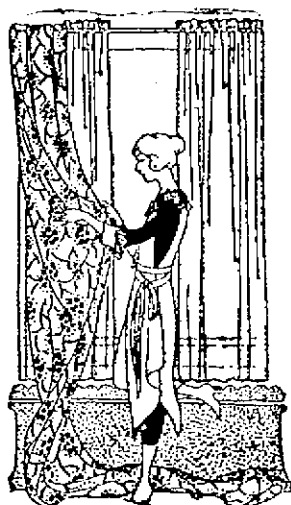

No Legislation Necessary to Punish Offenders in Opinion of Mass. Legislative Committee

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—No legislation is necessary to punish a baseball player, umpire, or owner who errs deliberately or conspires to throw a game, in the opinion of the legislative committee on legal affairs. After a hearing at which all who appear were agreed that there should be legislation to keep baseball clean and to punish those discovered to be acting unfairly, the committee decided that such actions could be punished sufficiently through public and other channels available to those in charge of baseball.

An electrically driven motorcycle is the latest.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Believed Committee Will
Make Adverse Report on
Packing House Project

From what information could be gained from two members of the chamber of commerce committee which visited slaughter and packing houses in Brighton and Somerville yesterday, it is believed that an adverse report will be made by the committee. The report will be made out and submitted at the meeting of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce at noon, Monday.

The committee was composed of Abel H. Campbell, William J. White, Jr., and George Bowers, consulting engineer for the American Hide & Leather company in Ferry street. The latter supervised the construction of the new lean house for his company, and because of his work in that capacity he was requested by the chamber to act as one of a committee of three. When the suggestion was first made that the chamber should have an investigating committee it was proposed to hire men for the work.

The proposal that the chamber should investigate the slaughter house proposition was at first objected to by many members, but at a meeting of the directors last week they decided that a report of an investigating committee, to be finally turned over to the city council, would be satisfactory.

It was explicitly stated, however, that the finding of the committee would not be binding upon the board of directors, nor be taken as the stand of the chamber of commerce upon the project.

The committee visited the New England Wool and Beef company, and the John P. Squire plant in Somerville, and a Brighton slaughter house. They went unheralded and unannounced, so that the officials of the plants knew the purpose of their request to be shown through the establishments.

In making the tour of the buildings, one of the committee remarked to the manager about the bad odor. The latter said that he couldn't smell anything and that his visitor was just imagining things. Then the manager added, that the odor was light and it was a "sweet-smelling day." This same committee member, who spoke of the odor, could not stand the effects of the smell, and had to retire once or twice to the outside.

In making their inspection, special attention was given to obtaining information as to the number of men such a plant as is proposed for Lowell, would employ. The finding was entirely below what is generally prevalent in the city. It is understood that the committee found from information gained in Somerville and Brighton that the Lowell plant would employ at the most 200 or 400 hands.

Another slaughter house official visited yesterday, when questioned as to the likelihood of another such plant being established in the vicinity of Boston, said that it would not be large, because the east cannot handle large slaughter or packing plants.

Labor Dept. Bulletin

Secretary-Manager George F. Wells, of the chamber of commerce, has been appointed as a special agent in this city for the United States department of labor, which will hereafter issue a monthly bulletin on unemployment conditions in 182 industrial cities of the country. The labor department, to facilitate their compilation of statistics, appoints agents in each industrial city. The first bulletin in which figures collected by Mr. Wells will appear, will be issued next month.

He will immediately set to work in gathering figures pertaining to the employment or unemployment conditions during the month of January and on March 1 figures on February will be sent by him to Washington. In this way, the exact status of industrial cities throughout the country will be compiled. When published the bulletin will be distributed to the various industrial concerns, public and private information bureaus, chambers of commerce, newspapers, and so on.

Committee Meeting

The committee on committees held a meeting at the chamber rooms this noon. Among the most important business discussed was a matter of recommendations to committees on action to be taken on the 1921 program of work for the chamber.

Killed by Blows From an Axe

Bones of the skull were pulverized and pieces driven into the brain. There were no other marks of violence on the body. The death may not have been instantaneous, he said Corson was knocked unconscious. The body was placed in a tomb here.

Before rigor mortis had set in, the body, weighing about 130 pounds and being about five feet, six inches long, was placed in the trunk found Wednesday night in the Wyleh home here, and taken to a farmhouse several miles from Dexter on the Foster road, where Knights' 16-year-old son, also held with his father on technical charges of larceny, was employed, according to the authorities.

Two days later it was transported to this place. The only garments on the body were a brown suit and an undershirt. Indicating that Corson was dragged from his bed to the middle of the room where the pools of congealed blood, the first clue that he was murdered a month ago, were discovered Monday. It was wrapped in a patchwork quilt from Corson's bed and a horse blanket.

Straw and chaff were carefully replaced and tramped down after the body had been buried in a three-foot grave. Mrs. Welch's only comment when informed of the finding of the body was that, if her son had committed such a crime, she wanted to see him punished.

Knights will be taken to Dexter and arraigned on the charge of murder probably tomorrow afternoon. His son, who bears his father's Christian name, is expected to be a material witness for the state.

Dexter, Me., Feb. 18.—A small axe believed to have been used to kill Alfred Corson in his room here was found today. It was discovered in a shed at the farm of Frank McKenny where Nelson Eugene Knights, alleged confessed murderer, stored part of his household goods after they were removed from the tenement house in which Corson was killed, and where his son, Nelson Eugene Knights, Jr., was employed as a farmhand.

The axe was coated with dried blood and dark brown hair. The hair was said to be the same color as that of the dead man. It was at this farm that the trunk in which Corson's body was moved to Canada was kept several days before it was taken to Canada on Feb. 5.

My 12th Anniversary

EXTRA PANTS FREE

Mitchell the Tailor reminds you that this Anniversary Sale marks his twelfth year in Lowell as neighbor, resident and low priced tailor.

Look forward and 12 years seem an eternity—Look backward and we marvel at the speed with which it has passed.

But in the tailoring business it is necessary at the beginning to look forward, otherwise you won't be around very long as a business man to be able to look backward. All through the year, as Mitchell the Tailor kept giving you the incomparable clothing bargains, it was with the forward eye to the Coming Year, when you would again think of him if you were in the market for another suit, another overcoat, another pair of trousers. "Tempus Fugit" is a wonderful lesson.

"Tempus Fugit" is my motto, meaning: Give the People a Big Run for Their Money, because the years roll around fast and the people remember.

No Trace of Editor Who Sought to Interview Ford
—River to be Dragged

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—At the request of Henry Ford, the police today dragged the River Rouge in search for Mr. Henry Potter, editor of the American Publishing association of Philadelphia, who has been missing after a visit here to interview Mr. Ford. It is believed he may have fallen through the ice in the river in an attempt to reach the Ford estate.

Mr. Potter has been missing since Sunday, when he made an ineffectual attempt to see Mr. Ford at Dearborn. Denied entrance to the Ford Co. property by guards, according to Ford employees, he remarked that he would put in Henry Ford if he had to swim the river.

TRAWLER FISHERMEN

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Reduced wages for steam trawler fishermen are proposed in a new scale submitted today by owners of 23 vessels of this city and Gloucester to the Boston Fishermen's Union. The proposed scale, which would reduce wages from $1.50 a month to $1.00 a month, was submitted to the union by the owners of the trawlers of the Boston and Gloucester fleets have both in commission recently, the owners claiming that the cost of operation due to coal prices and wages was excessive in view of the low price of fish.

The present wages are $1.50 a month with a bonus of $5 or $4 on each thousand pounds of fish.

No action has been taken as the fishermen's union has for 12 or 13 years refused to accept the proposed scale.

Under the proposed scale, each man would receive $1.00 a month in wages and share in a division of stock or vessel earnings. Ten per cent of earnings up to $150 and 5 per cent on earnings above that amount would be divided among the crew.

Both the warring master and divers assert it will be difficult to get the vessel off.

SEEK TO DISLODGE SHIP
STRANDED ON LEDGE

NEW BEDFORD, Feb. 18.—The South Weymouth Co. of New Bedford, Canada, started this morning the work of dislodging the straggling ship, Veneta, which was stranded on a ledge on Southport Neck, the other day, jammed by the business of the warring master and divers.

Sealed Verdicts of Guilty Returned

WORCESTER, Feb. 18.—Sealed verdicts of guilty were reported today against Leon R. Berry, and Theodore Marquis, both of Leominster, who were indicted for assault with intent to murder Dosylva Cote, a Worcester taxicab driver in Boylston, Sept. 5, 1919. Cote's body was found by the roadside two days after he was attacked. Sentence will be imposed later.

No Trace of Slayers of Teachers

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—No trace of the slayers of Louise Wolf and Mabel Foote, Parma Heights school teachers, resulted from an all-night search through every section of Parma township by a posse of armed residents.

Prominent Business Man Expresses His Appreciation
Over Toxo Treatment

"The reason that I am telling you this is because of this little friend," said a prominent business man as he held up a little package. "We smiled, for we were happy to see the thing he displayed was a box of Toxo, the wonderful treatment for constipation and indigestion."

"As I was walking along a street the other day," continued the business man, "I had seen of my friends stop and remark how well I was looking. And every time I had to laugh to myself for the secret was the little Toxo treatment package in my pocket. "When I recall how wretched I was and the misery I went through, all due to constipation and stomach trouble, I realize that it's a horrible dream. I was all run down and tired out. My head was疼 and I felt nervous and unsteady. My bowels were out of order and my breath was so bad I feared to go near any of my friends."

"I had terrible headaches and felt sharp, hot pains in my stomach and chest and it seemed as if I had suffered for years until I commenced using Toxo. It wasn't but a short time later that I was myself again. My bowels were working in good shape and every time I went people spoke of how well I looked. I've made up my mind to tell the secret to all my friends so that they may enjoy the wonders of Toxo treatment, whether it be for constipation, indigestion or other stomach troubles. As well as any stomach trouble, has done wonders ever since it has been offered to the public. It formerly was prepared only for the personal use of thousands of doctors as over the country. You now can buy it in a drugstore or buy it simply at Dr. Williams' drug stores on Merrimack street by asking for Toxo. It is pleasant to take and find in action. Keep it in the house at all times.—All.

CERTAINTY OF PENALTY TRUE CRIME CHECK

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—"Certainty of punishment, rather than severity of it, is the cure for crime," says Raymond B. Fosdick, police and criminology expert.

Fosdick's opinions carry weight because of several years' study of police systems of America and Europe and the causes, prevention and cure of crime.

"Cure means two tremendous reforms: a complete making over of our criminal court system, and the absolute divorce of police from politics."

"These reforms cannot be accomplished speedily. It must be a slow process of education."

"I read every few days of legislatures considering the passage of laws increasing the penalty for crimes."

"That doesn't mean anything. We do not check crime while punishment remains uncertain."

Certain Penalty

"It is better to make a 20-year penalty certain—or even a 10-year sentence—than to have a 40-year penalty that is never inflicted."

"A jury would be all the more hesitant to convict a man if the sentence was fixed at 40 years than it would be if the penalty were 20 years."

Mixed population in America is named by Fosdick as one of the big causes of crime.

He calls the London and Paris police departments far more efficient than American forces, but says this is largely due to the homogeneity of population there.

"Causes of crime," Fosdick says, "include these three big divisions: poverty—or, more properly speaking, economic misadjustment—drugs and liquor."

War is Cause of Crime

"The war must be listed among the causes of recent increase in crime. It was the same after the Civil war, after the Napoleonic wars and after the Thirty Years' war. A crime wave after the Civil war lasted three years."

"There is no doubt that we have had a crime wave, both in the volume and spectacularity of crimes.

"There is as much room for crime prevention in our communities as for the prevention of the prevention of disease. But we will never get far so long as politics hamper police efficiency."

OPERA HOUSE

Miss Marguerite Fields never looked more charming than she does as the southern girl in "The Great Commander." Joseph Thomas, Kettering's play which is being produced this week at the Opera House. She plays the part with her usual grace and satisfaction. Milton Brown as the young northern officer who loves the southern girl, but who loves his country more, is also pleasing, while Jack Bennett's portrayal of President Lincoln could hardly be improved. It's a great play and a great production. Don't miss one of the remaining performances.

Next week's presentation will be the grand old New England drama, "A Nutmeg Match" with Miss Fields in one of her best parts.

THE STRAND

Pearl White has won a new place for herself in motion pictures. She is showing in "The Girl," that she is fully capable as an emotional actress and a real success in a real big feature. The picture that is being shown at The Strand certainly reflects her exceptional ability.

"Mr. W." is one of the most thrilling and intensely dramatic offerings that the film has offered us in some time. One must see it to realize its worth. The comedy and weekly is excellent.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Roscoe (Patty) Arbuckle, the genial and round comedian who during his short career has made millions of laughs at him, is still demonstrating that he is the king of comedy. In his latest comedy-drama, "Bewilderment," which is the featured attraction for the last three days of the current week. The story is by George Barr McCutcheon and has been read by millions of readers. There is more laughter and clean fun packed in this photoplay than in any that he has yet appeared in. "Chickens" starring Douglas MacLean, is the second big feature on the bill. The story deals with a rich young man who loses his fortune and starts to raise chickens. This is a delicious comedy-drama with a star that has through his clever work become one of the biggest favorites on

MOTHERS, DO THIS—

Rub Musterole on Throats and Chests

No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt, sure aid. It does not blister. As first aid and a certain remedy, Musterole is excellent. Thousands of mothers know it. You should keep a jar in the house, ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

35c and 65c jars; hospital size $3.

the screen. A comedy. News and Burton Holmes round out the bill.

R. F. KURTZ'S THEATRE

The very good entertainment at the R. F. Kurtz theatre, this week, is acclaimed by all who have attended. The Quixote Four, acknowledged singing headliners, do an act of general work as could be wished and Joe Cook, the one-man vaudeville show, was never as funny as he is now. Then there are Max Chadwick and Her Dad in a whirlwind dancing and comedy turn. They must not be overlooked. Others on the bill are: Marion Clare, singer; Van Cleave and "Pete," his mule; Ann Liebert, Co. in "The End of the World," and comedy, and the Palmers, in about everything.

ITALO THEATRE

But two days remain in which to see the double feature program that is being shown at the Italo theatre this week and the pictures introduce Miss Florence Chase in "The Woman Above Her Rank" and Ralph Lewis and Viola Vale in an attractive story, "Common Sense." The bill also carries an Educational comedy, "The One Best Way," and the Fox News. It is a week end program well worth seeing and if you do not plan on taking it in either today or tomorrow you will have regrets.

Fritz Kreisler Concert

The word at Chaffoux's at the closing time on Thursday noon was that the large balcony at the Strand theatre was practically sold out for the concert by Fritz Kreisler at the Strand next Monday evening. There are still excellent seats to be had on the floor but those, too, promise to be well sold out by Monday evening. Kreisler played his second concert in Washington, D. C., last evening. His first appearance was in the early fall. Today he is on his "way home" to Mrs. Kreisler at the hotel Wellington, New York, and tonight he takes the "midnight" for Boston. He plays at Symphony hall tomorrow afternoon. However, Sunday, and Lowell on Monday. Some of his January triumphs are briefly summarized as follows: January 5 in Memphis—Met with an enthusiastic reception. When he played to a capacity audience at the Lyric theatre, January 12 in Kansas City he gave the most memorable concert of the season when he played to 6000 in Convention hall. Jan. 14 in Columbus, Ohio, Kreisler reached the high point of the musical season when he heard him and many were turned away. January 15, in Terre Haute, Ind., he played to a record-breaking audience. January 22 in New Orleans he "charmed the most untalented audience which ever greeted an artist in this city." The recently enlarged Athenaeum could not hold all who wished to hear him. January 23 in Pittsburgh Kreisler is a god—at least Pittsburgh thinks so. January 25 in New York as encores for the New York Symphony "sold out the house for the Brahms program. Kreisler is the greatest living interpreter of the concert." January 29 in Waterbury, Conn. played to a capacity house. January 30 in Bridgeport, Conn. sold out the theatre capacity. His month of February seems to equal his record. Already he has sold out houses in Rochester, N. Y., New York City, St. Louis, Washington, D. C., Boston, Haverhill is practically sold out for Sunday and Lowell will be on Monday.

CASH AND GOLD MEDALS FOR POLICE

With a letter commending the local police for "expedition and unflinching discharge of duty," the Middlesex Street Merchants' association presents a cheque for $252, as part of their recognition of the speedy capture of the alleged slayers of David N. Tuller, a Middlesex street storekeeper, on January 25. In addition to the cash contribution to the police fund, the local association of business men will present gold medals to those officers who took part in the rounding up of the trio of gunmen.

"The safety of the entire community is in the hands of the police department," reads the letter, which is signed by Max Carp, chairman of the Middlesex Street Merchants' association, and the gift to the police organization is described as the mark of appreciation for the commendable work of the Lowell police department and its officers.

BETTER THAN GAS

Alcohol-Benzol Will Produce More Mileage

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A gallon of alcohol and benzol, in equal quantities, will propel a motor vehicle more than a gallon of gasoline alone.

That is the finding of British automobile engineers who have been looking for a mixture to supplant gasoline as a motor fuel.

Using a high-powered car, the engineers got 25 miles from a gallon of 100 per cent gasoline.

They went 125 miles on a gallon of 50 per cent alcohol and 50 per cent benzol.

The cost of the alcohol-benzol mixture, the engineers report, was considerably less than that of the gasoline.

TELEPHONE COMPANY'S ANNUAL REPORT

Says Every Railroad Man Should Read This

During the year 1920 the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company spent $12,125,000 for gross new construction and made a net gain for the year of $2,895,000. It was the largest net construction program which the company has ever carried out in a single year, and the growth was nearly 20 per cent more than in any year since the company began business.

These facts are shown in the annual report of the company recently issued.

On December 31, 1920, the company owned 228,113 stations, with 14,558 central offices and miscellaneous stations, making the total number in its territory 569,778. It owns 1,767,347 miles of wire, has 431 central offices and employs 16,125 people.

The report says there still are so many waiting applicants for telephone service that it will be some time before all of them can be provided for and, in many isolated cases where lack of outside plant exists this situation cannot be remedied for a considerable time.

Peterson's Ointment Co., Inc. Buffalo, N. Y. Dear Sirs: I was afflicted with what the doctors said were Varicose Ulcers, and up until about five weeks ago I have been treating them for about a year and five months.

With all the treatments that were prescribed to me by several doctors I received little benefit, and they kept applying and gave me much distress, and caused me to quit my work.

I was induced by a brother brakeman to try Peterson's Ointment, and after I had used two boxes I saw wonderful results. IMPRESSIVE ELOQUENCE

(Special to The Sun.)
OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 18.—Sixty years ago, in the spray of Prosper Falls, an Indian chief and the then governor of Washington respectively pledged their people to abide by a pact.

This pact recognized the perpetual rights of the Yakima tribe to fish where time immemorial the red man had taken his salmon.

The Indians had been reluctant saying to Governor Isaac I. Stevens, "But when you are dead, who will hear witness to your promises?" And the governor had replied, "I pledge the Americans to keep the promise as long as the mountains stand, as long as the sun shines and the river runs."

Calling upon these mute witnesses and summoning the spirits of the dead, Chief Meninock of the Yakimas has just made a speech of protest at the whites' violation of that treaty in the state senate chamber here which is the most dramatic recorded in its annals.

In Challenge

And that speech, which would do credit to the historic orators of his race, with its sharp challenge to the white man's honor, bids fair to correct a wrong the Indians had hitherto borne in silence.

Meninock was a boy when the treaty was made. He had stood attentively beside his father on that occasion. Today he is 50 and wrinkled. Much water has run over Prosper Falls since then, and the salmon have dwindled. Also, the whites have enacted fish and game laws which conflict so much with the treaty of 1855 that Meninock was recently arrested for taking salmon from the Yakima river.

Aged Chief Protests

A few days ago Chief Meninock and other tribal leaders, together with their wives and children, appeared at the

BANISH CATARRH

Breathe Hyomei for Two Minutes and Stuffed Up Head Will Go

If you want to get safe relief from catarrh, cold in the head or from an irritating cough in the shortest time, breathe Hyomei.

It will clean out your head in two minutes and allow you to breathe freely, awake or asleep, or money returned.

Hyomei should end a cold in one day, and relieve you of disgusting sniffles, hacking, spitting and offensive breath in a week.

Hyomei is made chiefly from eucalyptus, a soothing, healing, germ-killing antiseptic, that comes from the eucalyptus forests of inland Australia, where catarrh, asthma and other bronchial troubles are seldom known.

Hyomei is pleasant and easy to breathe. Just pour a few drops into the Hard Rubber Inhaler, use as directed and relief is almost certain.

A Complete Hyomei Outfit, including inhaler and one bottle of Hyomei, costs but little at druggists everywhere.—Adv.

Imposing state judges of the white men at the state capital here to protest, in their feathered and beaded trappings and scarlet blankets they projected a vivid picture of the past into the busy legislative councils as the chief rose to speak in dignified protest.

"My heart is glad today," said Meninock with solemn mien and sonorous tongue, "because you have said you would listen to what we have to say. It makes me feel that you want to do right by my people whose privileges have been taken and who are sick and sad for being deprived of the food which has given them health and strength."

Calling Upon Spirits
"I call upon the spirits of the dead and upon those witnesses which Governor Stevens himself invoked to testify that I speak the truth for the white-topped mountain still stands and the river still runs over the falls where the salmon in season come to leap."

When the old chief sat down among his people, the assembled legislators broke into a storm of approving cheers, and the senate committee which has the Indians' case under advisement immediately went on record as favoring the claims of Meninock and his folk, as included in a bill already introduced.

SIMON SWIG'S BANK CLOSED

Tremont Trust Co. of Boston Ordered Closed By Bank Commissioner

Charges Violation of Banking Laws—Swig Charges Conspiracy

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The Tremont Trust Co., which has aggregate deposits of $17,000,000 in savings and commercial accounts from many parts of New England, kept its doors closed today, as a result of the action of Bank Commissioner Joseph C. Allen in taking over its affairs late yesterday afternoon. Although it was the fifth institution of its kind in this city to be closed by the commissioner in the past few months, the suspension had no noticeable effect among other banks of the city by which it was regarded as an independent.

The posting of a notice after banking hours yesterday had discounted the closed doors of today and only a few depositors and others passed through the police lines in front of the bank offices in Seelye Square to scan the brief statement. Bank Commissioner Allen said he had nothing to add to his supplemental statement of yesterday that violation of the banking laws and impairment of the capital had made his action necessary. Simon Swig, vice president of the bank and its most active spirit, announced that depositors in both the savings and commercial departments were certain to get 100 cents on the dollar. He asserted the capital was not impaired, and that the closing was due to a conspiracy.

The closing of the Tremont followed that of the Cosmopolitan, Fidelity, Prudential and Hanover Trust companies which went to the wall last fall in a period of rigid inquiry and public excitement growing out of the collapse of the 1914 quick-rich bubble. The Tremont was under a heavy run at the time and with other banks was forced to declare a 30 day moratorium on savings withdrawals so that in effect the closing of today merely marks a prolongation of the period of suspension to savings depositors.

FARRELL QUESTIONED ON ROW AT MATTICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Lieut. Stephen A. Farrell, who came to blows with Lieut. Walter Hinton at Mattice, Ont., after their balloon adventure into Canada, testified yesterday before the naval board investigating the incident that he could not remember clearly what had taken place owing to his physical condition at the time.

He admitted that just before the altercation he "heard swearing," but could not remember beyond that. Hinton, he stated, had given him no cause for striking the blow.

After Hinton visited him in the house of a Hudson Bay Trading Co. employee, Farrell explained that he fell asleep and when he awoke Lieut. Hinton asked him to "get together" with Hinton. He told Hinton, he testified, that if he had done anything wrong he was sorry, and later apologized to Hinton.

Farrell's attorney tried to show that Hinton could not state positively that Farrell had struck the blow. He asked Hinton whether Farrell's position after the clash might not have been that of defense from a blow struck by someone else. Hinton replied he "supposed that might be so."

The 1924 export trade of Great Britain increased 61 per cent over that of 1919.

TO ATTEMPT FLIGHT ACROSS CONTINENT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 18.—An announcement that Lieut. William H. Coney of the 91st aero squadron would attempt a 24-hour flight across the continent despite the mishap to his competitor, Lieut. Alexander Pearson, who fell in the Big Bend country, in Texas, was made today at North Island.

Lieut. Coney plans to cut at Blackwell field here at 6 p. m. next Monday and to have his next dinner at Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday evening at 5:30 o'clock. To achieve this, he must fly 2070 miles in less than 24 consecutive hours.

SKILTON PROTESTS GAME

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—The game in which the Boston Athletic Association team won the championship of the eastern section of the United States amateur hockey league last night, was protested today by Captain Raymond Skilton of the Shoe Trades club. The protest was based on the delinquent of George Dufresne, a Canadian member of the Shoe Trades team, who failed to establish his amateur status, and on a delay of more than two minutes to allow a Boston A.A. player to obtain treatment for an injury. Boston won the game after two 10 minute overtime periods, 5 to 3.

CHELMSFORD EXTENSION SCHOOL

Interesting meetings of the Chelmsford extension school were held today at the town hall and Congregational church of the Centre village. The men meeting in the hall and the women in the church. At the men's meeting the subjects discussed were "Fertility" and "Soil Fertility," while at the women's meeting the topics of discussion were "Household Renovation," "Business Methods in the Home" and "My Family Well Fed," while "Clothing Efficiency" was also discussed at length. At noon dinner was served in the church.

school buildings, he said, was a sufficient drawback on the school schedule, without having it lengthened by fooling or conversation among the students. He compared the high school schedule to the train schedule of the railroad. "If a train is late," he said, "then things go wrong all along the line. What we want you to do is to keep the high school trains on time. Our definite schedule must be put through on time."

Through the courtesy of the management of Keith's, elaborate stage settings were arranged for the first number, a minstrel dance, by ten girls. The participants were attractively adorned in colonial costume, and in doing through the evolutions of the dance they made a very pretty picture. Considerable preparation, under the direction of the girls' physical training instructors, had been given to this feature.

The climax of the exercise was in the offering of the third act from John Drinkwater's famous play, "Abraham Lincoln." It was originally staged in a suburb of London, but since that time it has become famous in the United States, England and even more recently it was produced in France. The scene is the reception room at the White House at a time when the great civil war was beginning to wear upon Lincoln's wonderful courage and physique.

The part of Abraham Lincoln was ably taken by Gregory McAdams. The other characters were dressed in the costume of Lincoln's day and displayed a fine dramatic skill. The part of

DUFFY GETS DECISION CONTRACT WITH VALGER
IN GREAT BOUT SHOWS HE "DUCKED"

Billy Duffy, of Everett, who jumped in as an eleventh hour substitute for Benney Valger, who broke his contract with the local promoter, but up a whole of a bout against Johnny Drummond the Jersey City lightweight at the Crescent A.A. last night and at the end of 10 rounds was awarded the decision.

While many disputed Duffy's right to the verdict, none could deny that he gave a wonderful exhibition against the notable Benney Leonard down. Duffy had a weight advantage over Drummond and he used it for all it was worth. He used a long left jab, which was the trouble for Benney Leonard down. Duffy had a weight advantage over Drummond and he used it for all it was worth. He used a long left jab, which was the trouble for Benney Leonard down.

Drummond had a lead in the early rounds, but Duffy came strong in the fourth round and hit with terrific force. In the second round Christy sent Mandoli against the ropes with such force that the corner post gave way. In the third round Christy sent Mandoli to the floor as the bell sounded and in the fifth he dropped him to stay while the referee counted ten. The crowd was a good one and the large times, Frank Murphy, of Lowell, who has just recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia, was back on the job as a judge. The other judge was Thomas Keegan, of Lawrence, Tommy Sullivan, of Lawrence was the referee and his work was highly satisfactory.

GAELIC ATHLETIC CLUB

Lowell Gaelic Athletic Association Outlines Activities for Present Year

Boston Gaelic school, Tipperary, Roscommon, Clare, and Mayo football associations of Boston are among the prospects for games with the Lowell Gaelic Athletic Association, this year. This was announced at the regular meeting of the latter organization in the Leather Workers' hall, Central street, last night.

A committee representing the Irish National Footballers was present to make arrangements for a game with a Lawrence team for a field day to be held either at Spaulding park or on some grounds between Lowell and Lawrence. Drawing books for the drawing contest were distributed and reports on sales will be made at a dance to be held on Easter Monday. The team captains are Thomas Sheffield and Michael Quinn.

AFTER CUP BOYS WIN

In Aves last night, the Aves basketball team defeated the American Legion Post 37, second team, by the score of 17 to 5. The local boys seemed unable to cope with the all around skill and experience of their opponents. The Lowell players returned late last night.

BIG TRACK MEET IN
BOSTON NEXT TUESDAY

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—Yale and Massachusetts Institute of Technology will meet in a two-mile relay race at the American Legion track games here on Washington's birthday. It was announced today. An effort is being made to match Corporal Guillemot, the French runner now in New York, against T. Nightingale, the conqueror of the Englishman, Montague, at Philadelphia last year, and Walter Higgins, Columbia university's star runner in a three-mile race. A cablegram has been sent the French war office asking authority for Guillemot to compete, and the answer is expected in a day or two.

He has attracted considerable attention at Columbia university where he has been wrestling. Compared with American collegiate runners, he has no form. He runs like a schoolboy, kicking his heels in the air and flapping his arms. All observers admit, however, that he has speed. His legs stretch out to a remarkable degree at the height of his stride and he has displayed great stamina in sprinting finishes. He gives the widely spread report that he trains on beer and cigarettes. He observes virtually the same training rules that are in vogue among American athletes.

MERRIMACK MILLS
BOWLING LEAGUE

With only one more week for the season to close, the players and managers of the Merrimack Mills Bowling League are tied for first place. On Monday the machine show will roll the players and the managers will roll the corduroy team. One point lost by either team will probably settle the race.

The individual records set up in the league are as follows: High team single, 510, spinners: 517, machines: 509, carmen: 535; machine finish: 1418; corduroy: 1432. Individual three string totals: Mainville, 327; Maguire, 329. Single string: 133; Chaplain, 131; Lane and Moss. The team standing is as follows:

Merrimack Mills Bowling League

Manos is willing to roll Gray of the Massachusetts mills for anything. If Gray comes to the bowling alley Monday night arrangements can be made for a match.

It is rumored that all the carpenters were smoking cigars after last Monday's game.

Maguire and Manos will roll Gray and Lane of the Massachusetts mills. Lyness will not bowl for the rest of the season.

Moss, Foye, Moran, Queenan and O'Dea want to meet the team Maguire and Farrier pick out.

Chaplain is picking up a team to roll the chauffeurs of the Fawcett shops.

Manos and Maguire want to roll Gray and Hinde of the Appleton mills.

The Merrimack All-Stars are cleaning up on all manufacturing plants in the city. They are now looking for games with any mill team in Lawrence.

Maguire and Lyness want to take another trip to Graniteville. An airplane is needed.

At the system and machines do not break their tie on Monday night.

First place ought to be decided on the pinfall.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"But how am I ever to get down to the earth again?" asked the Bobadil. "I am of the Star in a worried voice. Nick has taken my wishing ring and besides that he and Nancy have all the charms and the Magic Green Shoes. You say my magic is of no use up here in the sky?"

The Star shook his head. "No, not a bit. But we'll have to get you down to earth once more. We certainly don't want you up here." And he thought hard for a minute or two.

"Suppose," said he finally, "that each of you takes one Magic Green Shoe. That would get you to earth safely. Will you promise to return them?"

"Yes, yes, yes," said the Jim and Equator. "If you will only get me safely to the earth, I'll promise to leave the shoes on the high rock above the clouds where these children may find them when they, too, journey earthward."

"That won't do," said the Star. "You'll have to think of some place else."

"Then I'll leave them on the doorstep of my palace in the desert," said the Jim.

"That won't do, either," declared the Star, shaking his head.

"How about leaving them on the Equator?" asked the Jim.

Again the Star shook his head. "No, indeed. You know as well as I do that no magic is of any use to the Equator. Why, one even loses his shadow there!"

The Jim began to look worried. "Are you children still determined to go to the South pole after the last days?" he asked.

"Yes, indeed!" they cried together. "The wizard taught them and cried suddenly, 'Keep the green shoes and all the charms! I'm not afraid of you, and now I'm going to jump!'"

Which he did.

AUSTRIA FACES CHAOS

Officials Alarmed Over Demands of Civil Servants—Big Strike Threatened

VIENNA, Feb. 17.—Austrian officials are alarmed over the demands of civil servants and are endeavoring to negotiate a compromise, at the same the complete suspension of federal activities.

Provincial civil servants are awaiting the result of the negotiations to demand the same proportionate increase in wages which would involve several billion crowns additional. An unpleasant factor in the situation is the fact that the government is participating in the movement.

A number of strikes have just been settled in many trades, all the agreements reached involving heavy increases in wages. Among the strikes which have been averted is one by farm laborers, who threatened a country-wide strike just as spring plowing and planting was beginning. They will receive a 50 per cent wage increase which naturally must be paid by the consumer.

ALARM OVER EGYPT'S COTTON INDUSTRY

CAIRO, Feb. 15.—Alarm over the situation of Egypt's cotton growing industry is expressed in a memorandum to the council of ministers from the cotton research committee. Should the situation in yield continue, the committee says, the result would be a veritable disaster for Egypt.

About 100 years ago, Mohammed Ali introduced the cotton plant into Egypt, and the value of the crop steadily increased until last year it passed 100,000,000. In spite of all efforts, however, the return per feddan (1½ acres) in the last 20 years has constantly diminished. Although there has been a considerable increase in the area under cultivation, the total yield last year was less than it was 10 years ago. It was only the exceptional prices ruling in 1920 that produced the record value of the crop.

MYRIADS OF GREEN
BUGS IN OKLAHOMA

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 18.—Myriads of green bugs of a kind not yet identified have appeared in Oklahoma and are advancing toward the Kansas wheat fields, according to information received today by the Kansas state board of agriculture.

Crops in the infested districts of Oklahoma are seriously threatened, according to a message from Oklahoma City, which quoted the state entomologist as announcing that the bugs had entered Oklahoma from Texas.
